State To Speed Up $2,000,000 Building Projects

TO PROVIDE MAXIMUM OF EMPLOYMENT

Will Complete Construction Program For Period Which Ends June, 1931

REVEALED BY MEEK

Estimate Development Will Provide Work For About 550 Men For 10 Months

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 12.—(UP)—Six months ahead of schedule, building projects for California institutions totaling $2,047,000 are on the December program of the department of public works, it was announced by B. B. Meek, director.

With the exception of three projects, this will complete the state building construction program for the biennial period ending June 30, 1931, Meek said.

The work was rushed in order to offer a maximum of work to relieve depression and unemployment.

It is estimated the work that has been or will be started in December will give employment to 550 men for the first 10 months of the year. The projects and budgeted costs are:

School for the deaf, Berkeley—Two dormitories and kitchens, now advertised for bids, $285,000.

Agnews State Hospital, Santa Clara County—Award has been made for the farm group buildings, $342,500. Bids will be opened December 18 for the $13,000 physician's cottage, and December 13 for elevators, $4850.

Pacific Colony at Spadra, Los Angeles County—Plans for the hospital and administration building will be ready for bids the latter part of the month. The ward building and dairy building will be ready for bids the same time. The cost of the three is estimated at $170,000.

California Institution for Women, Techachapi, Kern County—Plans will be ready for bids on three cottages and the administration building, estimated at $300,000, the latter part of the month.

Santa Barbara State Teachers College—Final revision of the design of the $110,000 science and arts building is under way and will be ready for bids this month.

San Jose State Teacher College, Santa Clara County—Contract has been awarded and work starts this month on the $138,000 new gymnasium building.

San Diego State Teachers College—Bids will be opened December 17 on a $10,000 temporary building for physical education.

Reaction To Bank Failure Reflects Confidence Today

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(UP)—The reaction in financial circles to the closing of the bank of the United States yesterday was interpreted in Wall street today as reflecting confidence in the general soundness of the banking situation.

Leading bankers, who observed the effects of the closing, were surprisingly mild, in view of the size of the institution, and said they were reasonably certain no other important bank here would find itself in difficulties.

The readiness of 23 leading banking institutions displayed in offering loans to depositors of the bank of the United States, with their bankbooks acceptable as collateral, helped to allay what uneasiness there was among the nearly 400,000 depositors.

LOCAL MEDICAL GROUP ENTERS CANCER FIGHT

Attitude of Dr. Coffey Is Scored In Recent Resolution

THE FACT that there is dissension, doubt and even opposition in the ranks of the medical profession concerning merits and efficacy of the recently acclaimed Coffey-Humber method of cancer treatment, and that the Orange County Medical society has fearlessly plunged into the fray, taking the leadership in a fight that is said to be rocking medical circles of the entire state, was learned here today on good authority.

The matter, which has occupied the attention of the profession since its announcement by Drs. Walter B. Coffey and John D. Humber, of San Francisco, has been the subject of widespread discussion and conjecture by members of the profession since the meeting of the state medical society at Del Monte last May and the issuance of a letter by the Hewlett society, composed of some 29 professors of the faculty of Stanford university, which was sent to the state officers of the medical society asking an investigation and asserting that announcement of the new method of treatment was not made in the customary manner by Dr. Coffey.

Although officers of the county medical society have refused to make any statements on the matter or give any information on the subject, and members of the society have been extremely reticent in divulging any information, persistent efforts on the part of a Register representative have resulted in garnering information from various sources which, when put together and checked as a whole, reveals the story. None of the physicians from whom information was obtained would permit the use of his name, but all are reputable men in good standing in the community.

The controversy reached the blazing point at the regular meeting of the society held on December 2, when, it is learned, a resolution was adopted which condemned the attitude of Dr. Coffey toward the Hewlett society and recommended that the state medical association accept the resignation of Coffey, who is one of the state councilors, if it were offered. This, it is alleged, was an action which created a furor throughout the entire state in medical circles. While congratulatory telegrams were received from all parts of the state for the fearless stand taken on the matter by the Orange county society, it is said that state of-

NEBRASKA BOY ENTERS BIRD DRAWING IN LOCAL CONTEST

Coloring the Baltimore orioles and the nest on the bough must have provided quite a lot of enjoyment for the several score entrants in the bird coloring contest, judging by the pictures received by the judges. And one youth from away back in One, Neb., by Ray Carlson, rushed his coloring in by air mail, so that it would arrive in time to be judged! He holds the record for having sent his bird picture in from the farthest distance from Santa Ana.

TWO INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH AT CULVER'S CORNER

Death Takes Veteran Of U. S. Senate

Senator Overman, of North Carolina, Ends
Career

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(UP)—Lee Slater Overman, North Carolina Democrat whose length of service in the United States senate was exceeded by one member of the 71st congress, died early today at his hotel apartment here.

Senator Overman, who would have been 77 years old had he lived until January 3 next, had served continuously since March 4, 1903. His Democratic colleague from North Carolina, Furnifold M. Simmons, has been in the senate two years longer.

Services for Overman will be held tonight in the senate chamber. When the senate met at noon it at once adjourned until Monday in tribute to the veteran North Carolinian.

A hemorrhage of the stomach caused Overman's death at 12:25 a. m. He had been ill with a cold and indigestion since last Friday at the Shoreham hotel. With him at death were Mrs. Overman and his daughter, Mrs. E. N. Snow, of Washington. A blood transfusion yesterday afternoon failed to prolong life more than a few hours.

Overman was born in Salisbury, N. C., educated at Trinity college (now Duke university) and began the practice of law in his native town in 1880. He was five times a member of the state legislature before his election to the senate. He was re-elected November 2, 1926, for his fifth term, which would have expired March 3, 1933.

Overman at his death was a member of the appropriations, judiciary and rules committees. As a member of the judiciary committee he led the support for Judge John J. Parker during the fight over Parker's supreme court nomination and subsequent rejection.

Hoover Dam Fund Given Approval By House Today

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(UP)—The house today approved the $15,000,000 appropriation provided in the interior department appropriation bill for continuing work on Hoover dam at Boulder canyon. It defeated an attempt of Representative Douglas, Democrat, Arizona, to eliminate the appropriation and stop work on the project.

Douglas' amendment was opposed in speeches by Representative Phil Swing, Republican, California, co-author of the Swing-Johnson bill authorizing the project, and Representative Taylor, Democrat, Colorado.

SAYS RUSSIAN TRADE BAN TO HURT AMERICA

Borah Also Warns Nation
It Is Approaching
'Dole'

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(Copyright United Press 1930)—Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee warned today in an interview with the United Press that if the "wreckers" of Soviet Russian-American trade relations have their way this country will suffer vast economic loss. And he warned, too, that the United States was approaching the "Dole."

The senator's shaft was aimed at the treasury which has just issued trade regulations which he believes are designed to ruin Soviet trade with the United States. His remarks partly were prompted by the interview recently given the United Press in Moscow by Joseph V. Stalin, so-called Soviet dictator.

This interview was read by Borah with great interest. He feels the statement merits consideration regardless of what may be thought of Stalin's policies or methods. Borah is one of the outstanding advocates of recognition of the Soviet Russian government.

But in his discussion of Soviet problems today Borah limited himself to the economic aspects of the situation.

"Everything possible is being done in these days," he said, "to break down our trade with Russia—agitation and attacks and treasury regulations all calculated to interfere with and embarrass trade with Russia at a time when, above all things, we need foreign markets."

"Russia has purchased of our people in the last few years nearly twenty hundred million dollars worth of goods. That gave employment to a great many American workmen. But the extent of our trade with Russia in the past, unless the wreckers have their way, will be greatly increased in the next few years."

"The Russian trade is there. Someone is bound to enjoy it. In spite of anything we may do, the Russian trade will go on, the only thing we may accomplish is to turn it into channels other than those of the United States. We may succeed in sending it to other countries. But we cannot destroy the market itself."

"We have close to five million men out of work. There will be a good many of them out of work for some time. We are approaching the saddest and most condemnatory spectacle of a free people—that is the 'Dole.'"

LOAN CONCERN CHIEF ADMITS LARGE THEFTS

Hollywood Firm's Directors Believe $8,000,- 000 Missing

BULLETIN
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 12.—(UP)—The county grand jury today voted an indictment against Gilbert H. Beesmyer, secretary and general manager of the Guaranty Building and Loan association, charging him with ten counts of grand theft.

The indictment accused him of defalcations of only $43,200 although he previously confessed that the amount would approximate $8,000,000.

At the time it voted the indictment, the grand jury announced that all state building and loan department officers, past and present, would be called before it to explain how Beesmyer was able to carry on his misappropriations over a period of five years.

The jury also directed that every director of the Guaranty association should appear to explain how they, likewise, were duped by Beesmyer.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 12.—(UP)—A confession that he had misappropriated "several million dollars" of the funds of the Guaranty Building and Loan association was made to the board of directors of the organization early today by Gilbert H. Beesmyer, secretary and general manager.

The state instantly took charge of the institution and Beesmyer was arrested on a charge of grand theft. The board of directors said the defalcations might reach $8,000,000.

Discovery of the fraud was made after the closing of the Bank of Hollywood earlier in the week. Beesmyer, a well-known Southern California financier, was chairman of the board of directors of the bank.

The Guaranty association, upon the closing of the bank, immediately exercised its right to demand 30 days notice to all investors who wished to make withdrawals.

Officials began an investigation of the books of the Guaranty and learned they were in great disorder.

Beesmyer was called before the board and early today after some questioning he said:

"There is something wrong with my handling of the funds. I am a dirty crook."

Beesmyer also admitted that he falsified the accounts of other institutions with which he was connected.

"I further state," he said in his confession, "that I falsified the records of the North American Bond and Mortgage company and the Guaranty Holding corporation."

He did not estimate the amounts taken from these organizations and he did not include the Bank of Hollywood in those defrauded by him.

The resources of the Guaranty were placed at $11,530,247.67 in the last semi-annual statement, issued on June 30. The greatest part of this amount was made up of loans, placed at $8,590,323.91.

Stocks held were valued at $1,423,506.16. Other assets were listed as cash, real estate and miscellaneous. Its liabilities included investment certificates and membership shares valued at $10,202,558.35. The paid up capital was listed at $757,000; surplus and undivided profits at $102,763.59; bills payable $525,000 and incomplete loans $104,864.85. An unearned discount entry was $19,244.53.

Announcement of his confession was made by Judge Harlan Palmer, publisher of the Hollywood Citizen, who was called in as an advisor by the directors of the association.

Yorba Linda Woman Goes To Hospital

Mishap Prevents Attendance at Funeral of Husband

RETURNING from the burial grounds at Ramona where today she expected to accompany the body of her husband to its final resting place, Mrs. Augusta Janeway, 50, was seriously injured at Culver's Corner, on the San Diego highway last night, when the car in which she was riding, overturned.

Mrs. J. A. Hinshaw, 64, of Ramona, also was seriously injured. Both were taken to the Santa Ana Valley hospital, suffering from severe injuries about the head.

The driver of the machine was Robert Janeway, 28, of Ramona, son of Mrs. Janeway, and a pastor. His wife also was in the car. Neither was injured. According to reports received here, the car skidded and struck a telephone pole, breaking off a wheel.

L. C. Janeway, husband of Mrs. Janeway, dropped dead at his home at Yorba Linda Tuesday. Funeral services were held at the Friends church in Yorba Linda yesterday and interment was made this morning at Ramona, according to the original plans. Waldo Janeway, another son of Mr. and Mrs. Janeway, lost his life in the St. Francis dam disaster in 1927. His body never was found.

Mrs. Janeway, with other members of the family had gone to Ramona yesterday to make arrangements for the interment today.

10 EXECUTED FOR CHINA DEATH PLOT

HANKOW, China, Dec. 12.—(UP)—The arrest and execution of 10 Communists for their confessed plot to assassinate President Chang Kai-Shek was believed today to have exerted a crippling effect upon radical activity throughout China.

The execution followed closely a police raid upon "Red" headquarters here. Acting on information that an attempt would be made to kill the president upon his arrival here from Nanking, where he will establish a base for attack upon bandits, authorities arrested nine men and one 13-year-old girl. All confessed to the plot before their execution.

SUGAR PLAN FAILS

SHANGHAI, Dec. 12.—(UP)—Unconfirmed reports were circulated in Nanking today that Cuba had failed in its attempts to secure a 20-year monopoly on China's sugar trade. It was further understood, however, that Cuba had agreed to lend China $20,000,000 for the privilege.

Under the plan, Cuba would continue to pay a sugar tariff but would receive five per cent of the profits from the sugar refining industry in China.

It was believed that Java sugar interests would strenuously oppose such a plan.

Bishop To Meet Judge Today In New York Court

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(UP)—The controversy between Bishop William T. Manning and Former Judge Ben Lindsey was renewed today as they prepared to go to court where the latter will answer charges in connection with his ejection from the cathedral of St. John the Divine last Sunday.

It was expected that the issue this afternoon would revolve around the principle of whether interruption of a religious service was justified. Manning has been instructed to bring into court a marked copy of Lindsey's book on companionate marriage, which was sent to him before his sermon Sunday.

TWO MEN HURT IN FIGHT WITH DRY OFFICIAL

SANTA ROSA, Calif., Dec. 12.—(UP)—Hugh Prassa, 39, was probably fatally wounded and Antonio Providenti, 22, suffered a slight scalp wound today in a gun fight near here in which M. J. Buckley, federal prohibition officer, was a participant.

Buckley, Gus Morgue, another prohibition officer, and Providenti were searching in the vicinity of Sonoma for a liquor still, according to first reports, riding in a fast truck of the prohibition service.

They became lost in the fog and while Buckley and Providenti remained behind to guard the road Morgue returned to Sonoma to get a guide.

According to Buckley, a small automobile, driven by Prassa, came along and stopped after Buckley had flashed his badge.

Buckley said that Prassa then stepped down from the car and immediately began firing, the first bullet striking Providenti, who sat nearer the rear of the truck.

Buckley immediately returned the fire, he said, and Prassa fell with the first shot.

Shot through the stomach, Prassa was in a serious condition at Sonoma hospital.

Emmett Mullen, deputy sheriff said the guide whose services Morgue sought was Charles Battisderger, 17-year-old Sonoma boy and that the youth's parents were unaware of the fact.

According to Mullen, the boy's mother called him at 1 a. m., and asked that he locate the boy. She feared he had been kidnapped as he never had remained out so late before.

Shortly after Mrs. Battisderger phoned, Mullen said he received word from the hospital that Prassa was there wounded and that upon arriving at the hospital he found Buckley, Morgue and Battisderger with the wounded man.

Buckley and Morgue have declined to confirm the report that Battisderger was to serve as a guide in locating the still they were seeking.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Feeling between President Hoover and the senate reached a point only short of an open break today. Reports at the White House were that President Hoover is indignant that no Republican leaders have risen to defend him in face of the most bitter attacks that have been showered on a president in years.

Republican leaders on the other hand, complain that Mr. Hoover has declined to take them into his confidence; that without warning he gave to the press the statement accusing senators and congressmen of "playing politics at the expense of human misery." They feel that Mr. Hoover has made it difficult for them to launch any effective defense.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Feeling between President Hoover and the senate reached a point only short of an open break today. Reports at the White House were that President Hoover is indignant that no Republican leaders have risen to defend him in face of the most bitter attacks that have been showered on a president in years.

Republican leaders on the other hand, complain that Mr. Hoover has declined to take them into his confidence; that without warning he gave to the press the statement accusing senators and congressmen of "playing politics at the expense of human misery." They feel that Mr. Hoover has made it difficult for them to launch any effective defense.

Some close friends of the president said today he might issue another attack on congress this afternoon. The advisability of doing this was under consideration at the White House.

This situation has boiled up as a result of the change of tactics on the part of Mr. Hoover. As forecast recently by the United Press, the president has accepted the advice of friends that he strike out in a more Rooseveltian fashion against congress.

But this course, instead of rallying his forces in congress, has left his leaders indifferent in face of aggressive Democratic fire.

The president's action in going contrary to the advice of his party leaders in submitting the world court to the senate has contributed to the tense situation. James E. Watson, Republican senate leader, has openly taken issue with the president on this question. The result is the president is left without a leader. Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, a strong friend of the court, opposed the president's tactics and has said he cannot undertake the leadership of the court fight. It may fall to a Democrat, Senator Claude Swanson, of Virginia.

Not one Republican voted in dissent when the senate yesterday refused to give the president discretion in handling the $115,000,000 relief appropriation.

That the president intends to press his fight was indicated at the White House today when it was said he was determined to stay on here through the session, without taking his usual winter fishing trip to Florida.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(UP)—The cry of "dole" was raised by Republican Floor Leader John Q. Tilson in opening the administration fight in the house today against the $60,000,000 senate drought relief bill.

Tilson said the provision for loans for purchase of human food was nothing but a dole. He denounced it as a dangerous precedent.

The floor leader approved the provisions for loans to farmers in the drought areas for purchase of seed, fertilizer and livestock feed, but said there was a "very sharp dividing line" between such loans, which have been made before, and good as far as possible his misappropriations."

The directors added that depositors would lose little, if anything, if negotiations now under way are successful. The Guaranty has approximately 20,000 investors.

Besemeyer's written confession follows: "I, Gilbert H. Besemeyer, secretary of the Guaranty Building and Loan association of Los Angeles, and owning 4569 1-3 shares therein, do hereby make the following statement of my own free will and accord:

"I do hereby state that since 1921 I have been the secretary and general manager of said institution and as such I have had complete charge of all the records of said association, including all entries of deposits, all loans and all withdrawals and any and all other entries made in the records of said association."

"I further state that throughout all of the above period I have, without the knowledge or consent of any of the directors or officers connected with the above association, falsified and altered to the extent of several million dollars the books, entries and records of said association.

"I further state that the difference between the actual amount deposited in said association and the amount as shown by me to have been deposited was used by me personally without the knowledge of any of the directors or officers."

"I did not at any time or at all even disclose the above to any of the officers or directors of the aforesaid association, and I did not make any entries whatsoever in the books of the association showing what was done with these funds."

"I further state that I falsified the records of the North American Bond and Mortgage company and the Guaranty Holding corporation and misappropriated large sums of money belonging to said institution for my own personal use, and that such acts done by me in connection therewith were also done without the knowledge or consent of any of the directors or officers of either of these institutions."

"The foregoing statement and confession made by me and consisting of one page was made of my own free will and accord and without any undue influence, coercion or intimidation by anyone whatsoever."

The confession was witnessed by Judge Palmer, Charles A. Whitmore, state building and loan commissioner, and Alvin M. Wenk. The headquarters of the Guaranty are in Hollywood while branches are maintained in downtown Los Angeles, Pasadena, Glendale, Santa Monica and Beverly Hills.

Directors of the Guaranty said that Besemeyer's defalcations apparently began some time ago and that they continued as Besemeyer promoted several unsuccessful ventures. The final blow, it was said, came with the stock market collapse.

Besemeyer is 45 years old and was born in Hollywood. He is married and has one son.

The Bank of Hollywood at Hollywood and Vine streets and its branch at Santa Monica and Vine streets were closed for a seven-day period early in the week by Will C. Wood, state superintendent of banks.

Wood said that the action was necessary because the bank was not able to meet the heavy withdrawals by investors. Unless an acceptable plan of reorganization is offered by next Monday, Wood said he would liquidate the bank.

Commissioner Whitmore issued a statement in which he said that the loss due to the misappropriation was certain to be large but he said that it should not shake public faith in the building and loan business.

"I am taking over the affairs of this institution," he said, "in order to conserve the remaining assets for the benefit of creditors. The loss is certain to be heavy but the exact amount cannot be determined until the completion of an exhaustive audit and appraisal of assets."

Whitmore "deplored this heavy failure" but insisted that "the fact remains that fundamentally the financial set-up of building and loan associations is sound."

Besemeyer, clad in jail denim, was taken before District Attorney Buron Fitts shortly after 10 a. m.

He refused to pose for photographers and dismissed reporters with the brief statement: "The less said about this the better for the city of Los Angeles."

While Besemeyer was in the district attorney's office, a crowd of approximately 300 people assembled before the Hollywood headquarters and the downtown Los Angeles branch of the guaranty association. Many of those present said that all their money was invested with the company.

Police were sent to both Hollywood and the branch office to preserve order among the investors.

LEADERS DO NOT COME TO HIS DEFENSE

The bill was not before the house today, but Tilson took the occasion to express the administration's opposition in advance. The measure is expected to come up next week. The Republican floor leader did not discuss, either, the difference in the appropriation made by the senate, $60,000,000 and that approved by the house agriculture committee, which was $30,000,000. President Hoover had asked only $25,000,000.

"Insofar as food is concerned," Tilson said, "we are in effect dispensing charity and disguising it by calling it a loan. This is neither honest from the standpoint of the taxpayer and from the all-important standpoint of what the proper functions of the federal government, nor will it work with equality and justice as between individuals."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(UP)—Republican senate leaders have served on President Hoover a friendly ultimatum in reply to his sharp complaint against relief proposals that were not in keeping with his own suggestions.

News of the leaders' action leaked out at the capital and Majority Leader Watson confirmed that a meeting had taken place. It involved a telephone call to Mr. Hoover at the White House.

Officials made efforts to "pour oil on the troubled waters" and sought to get the Orange county organization to rescind its action.

Their efforts so far, it is reported, have been in vain, even after the appearance of a number of councilors and the president of the state society at a special called meeting of the Orange county society in Santa Ana last Tuesday night.

Members of the society at the meeting this week are reported to have demanded of the state officials why they had not taken action in the matter and denied publication of the state which have been construed as endorsements of the Coffey-Humber treatment by the state association, and why the medical association journal had been muzzled in the discussion of the matter. The society here also is reported to have stood firm on its former action, refusing to modify it in any manner.

The group of state officials is reported to have asserted that there had been no endorsement of the Coffey-Humber method and brought minutes of the organization to substantiate their assertion, and to have explained the impression that had gone out as being a misinterpretation on the part of the public press, of a statement made at the time of the state society meeting in Del Monte last May.

This statement was issued, it is said, following the appearance on the opening day of the convention, of adverse criticism in San Francisco papers concerning the Coffey-Humber treatment, which was characterized as "quackery." It is alleged. It is said that a group of wealthy men, including Herbert Fleischacker, the San Francisco banker; Paul Shoup, railway executive, and Kellogg, the Battle Creek health man, had given a sum totaling several million dollars to a health league for the investigation and cure of cancer, and that the state officials, under the impression that the adverse criticism of the San Francisco papers might lead to withdrawals of this support, then issued a statement thanking these men for their interest and support and at the same time giving Drs. Coffey and Humber a complimentary "puff." This, it is said, was what was recorded by the public in general, as an endorsement of the new treatment of the disease which has so long baffled medical science.

Officers of the state society also were quizzed as to why they had never made a denial of the interpretation of this statement, it is reported, but no information was available as to whether or not this was answered.

The Hewlett society letter, it is said, asserted that the co-discoverers of the new treatment had made the announcement in an irregular manner, releasing it to the public press before it was given to the medical journals, making criticism of this action and asking for an investigation. This letter never was published in the state journal of the society, it is asserted by those who claim to be familiar with the situation, due to threats alleged to have been made by Dr. Coffey, who is a member of the state councilors, which seems to be in control of the state organization. It is said that Dr. Coffey, in a letter from his attorney, threatened libel suit, and the matter was dropped by the council.

The Hewlett society, however, refusing to be choked off in this manner, sent a letter containing its protest to every physician in the state, it is learned. The state council then issued a letter which was sent to every physician in California, explaining that the letter of the Hewlett society had not been published in the Journal due to the threat of Dr. Coffey, which it was felt might involve the entire medical profession of the state in a libel suit.

In the meantime, according to reputable physicians, it was discovered that the serum treatment was not what it was first believed to be and that physicians who had at first accepted it and sent patients to the Coffey-Humber clinics for treatment by the new method, later became passive and finally developed unqualified opposition and disapproval. One member of the society, who refused to permit the use of his name in connection with the story, claimed that the serum was not only not a cure, but was actually harmful to the patient in some instances. The method was labeled by this man in vigorous terms as a fraud.

Members of the society who could be persuaded to make any comment at all on the matter, were unanimous in stating that the meeting here Tuesday night was "a hot one" and that plain language was used in talking to the state officers who were attempting to smooth over the situation. One member of the county society, in commenting on the matter, said that there had been a seeming endorsement of the treatment at first by action of physicians in attending a dinner honoring the co-discoverers of the new treatment and by sending patients to the clinics, all of which the public knew, and that consequently the public had rights in the matter and was entitled to know the facts. "As a general rule," he said, "the profession shies away from a fight of this nature, but this is a time for action."

State officers who attended the meeting here Tuesday night included Dr. Lyell Kinney, of San Diego, president of the state society; Dr. Hunter, of Los Angeles; Dr. Mott Arnold, of San Diego; Dr. William Duffield, of Los Angeles; and Dr. Pallett, of Los Angeles, who is speaker of the house of delegates of the state organization.

Latest reports state that the Orange county society is standing pat on its position in the matter.

DEATHS

A WORD OF COMFORT

What Jesus was, God is. Read again the New Testament story and see how tender Jesus was, how the little children loved Him, how everyone He met knew that He cared about them, how He was ready to meet their needs.

God is like that. You may not yet be able to discern His presence with you and to sense the throbs of His heart's sympathy, but He is bearing your sorrow with you. As you learn to look to Him for guidance and strength you will find yourself growing calmer and braver and more confident.

GREENWALD—At Glendale, December 11, 1930, Norman B. Greenwald, aged 26 years. Mr. Greenwald was born in Santa Ana and resided at 2105 N. Main St. He is survived by an aunt, Mrs. F. H. Rohrer and uncle H. B. Greenwald, both of Santa Ana. Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. from Smith and Tuttle's chapel with the Rev. E. W. Matz officiating. Largest Class in Citizenship in Final Test

Examination of the largest class of applicants for United States citizenship that has ever appeared before an Orange county court, according to those closely in touch with naturalization matters, is being examined by J. W. Butterfield, of Los Angeles, in the court of Judge James L. Allen today.

The class numbers close to 50 persons, and accompanied by their witnesses, made up a crowd that filled the court room to overflowing, as the questions were propounded concerning the character of the applicants. The group was examined in government and history at the high school last night by Butterfield.

Preparations are being made in the office of County Clerk J. M. Backs for issuing the papers to the successful applicants for United States citizenship.

Probation Petition Is Denied Today

Leonard R. Eggleston had his petition for probation denied today by Judge G. K. Scovel before whom the matter was heard, and was sentenced to San Quentin for the term prescribed by law for issuing a bank check with intent to defraud. The term is said to be from one to 14 years. The prisoner had previously entered a plea of guilty to the charge. He issued a bad check for $35 on the Rankin Dry Goods store, and it is understood has several other checks standing against him.

Elbert Sutherland, who is charged with the murder of Bert Meeks, also appeared before Judge Scovel today for arraignment on the charge and entered a plea of not guilty. The trial was set for January 6, 7 and 8. Bail bond was fixed at $10,000. Sutherland, it is alleged, shot and killed Meeks on the night of November 30, when the victim, in company with a brother, called at the Sutherland home near Smelter.

BREA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE HOLDS MEETING

The work of the Orange county planning commission, the financial standing of the county as shown by the auditor's report for the past year, and the great need of an educational survey for the county were the subjects presented at the annual meeting and election of directors of the Brea Chamber of Commerce by the three speakers of the evening, Dr. Walter Bigham, of the planning commission; Supervisor William Schumacher, and S. James Tuffree of the Fullerton union high school board.

The meeting was held in the American Legion hall, following a dinner served by the Legion auxiliary. L. A. Hogue presided at the business session, and four directors of the old board were re-elected, Carl O. Harvey, Harry M. Massey, Mrs. Stella Keene and Mrs. W. E. Huest, others elected were W. D. Shaffer, C. F. Gordon, Carson Rogers, Charles C. Kinsler and Harlan LeGro. Members of the old board who are retiring are L. A. Hogue, president; Frank Mason, Ben Sutton, Dr. Glenn Curtis, A. H. Brown and E. H. Peterkin. The election of officers will be held Wednesday evening at the Chamber of Commerce office, and no more meetings will be held after that until January 7.

Dr. Bigham was introduced by Mrs. Stella Keene, program chairman. The need for a planning commission, which was made compulsory by state legislation, was brought out by the speaker in telling of the example of Los Angeles county, which is now spending more than a million dollars a mile in correcting her highway system.

"One of the problems of the commission is to see that all classes of property are used to the best advantage," said the speaker. "One of the drugs on the market and one of the most difficult things we have to contend with is potential business property. A vacant lot in California must double in value every seven years to pay interest on the investment. One of the most prevalent and most mistaken ideas is that traffic makes business. There are only two ways to increase business; one of them is to increase the buying power of the individual and the other is to increase the number of pedestrians who pass a place of business.

"Everything we do is based on our highway system and the last traffic survey shows the heaviest traffic along the coast, while the last census showed 80 per cent of the population within a radius of 10 miles of the coast house. Future growth will be along the coast, and secondary highways are going along the hills where subdivisions are going in.

"Between Los Angeles and Orange county lies the greatest industrial area in the west, and I hope we can keep it over our boundaries, providing arteries for rapid transportation and making Orange county the finest residential section in the world."

S. James Tuffree, speaking on the educational survey of the county, brought home to Brea the fact that some time she would be forced to join the Fullerton junior college district whether she wanted to or not, and that it would be well to become acquainted with the situation. Tuffree's review of the situation was followed by a talk by Carl Harvey, principal of the Brea-Olinda high school.

"I consider this survey imperative to the development of the educational program of the county," said Harvey. "There is too much personality on the subject within the county and we must have the opinion of impartial people. It does not matter whether they decide for one or two junior colleges, the main thing is the great mass of information which will be made available. We have been slow to put business practices into effect in regard to our schools, and the cost is not the item to be considered but the value of the survey. There is not a school in the county but that could well afford to spend $5000 for the benefit it would bring to their individual unit."

"Mr. Tuffree is right in saying that sooner or later you will be called on to join the Fullerton junior college district and you cannot afford to do it in its present indefinite state. The state survey will be the national survey, and Orange county is concerned, and will give us very little help as regards purely local problems."

Acting on a motion by Dr. Curtis, a resolution was passed unanimously urging the board of supervisors to put through this survey.

Local Briefs

A copy of articles of incorporation of the Universal Ladder company has been filed with County Clerk M. Backs. The principal offices of the concern which is capitalized for $50,000, are to be located in Orange county. Directors are G. H. Grunwald, of Orange, Charles E. Starr and Warren L. Pierson, of Los Angeles.

Announcement of the opening of a research department to investigate unlisted securities by the California Reserve company of Los Angeles was made recently by Alva E. Harzgrova company of 120 West Third street with Vorce & Cochens, managers for the Los Angeles institution. The new department has been well received by the citizens of Santa Ana, and surrounding territory, who now have an unusual source of information to aid them in settling their financial problems.

Mr. Ralph C. Smedley, Sec. of the Y. M. C. A. gave the students of the Business Institute and Secretarial School, 415 North Sycamore street, a talk on "The advantages of this generation over the former generation. Physically, Mentally and Socially," at their regular assembly period.

The annual meeting and banquet of the Orange County medical society will be held Tuesday night, January 6, it was announced today by Dr. H. M. Robertson, retiring president of the society. Arrangements for the meeting are in charge of Dr. E. J. Steen, of Fullerton, who has been chosen by the county physicians to head their organization for next year. Selection of the meeting place will be announced by Dr. Steen in the near future, it is learned.

Dr. H. M. Robertson, president of the Orange county medical society, attended a meeting of the state board of medical examiners in Los Angeles Wednesday. Dr. Robertson is a member of this board.

B'NAI B'RITH WILL HOLD BIG FROLIC

Orange county members of the Jewish order of B'nei B'rith and their families and friends have been invited to join with the Long Beach branch of the order at a New Year's frolic to be held in the Community building, 439 West Anaheim street, Long Beach, on New Year's eve.

The invitation was extended through Adolph Tannenbaum by Rabbi Harvey B. Franklin, of Long Beach, who was a visitor in Santa Ana today, and who conducted the services at the Gustav Reinhaus funeral. The affair is to start with a turkey dinner and the program for the evening includes de luxe entertainment and music by the Coconut Grove orchestra.

PRISONER TALKS SELF INTO FINE

W. M. Lawrence, age 64, who resides on Custer street, in Santa Ana, talked himself into a $20 fine in Judge J. F. Talbot's court today.

Arrested on a charge of being drunk last night, he pleaded guilty, stating that he had mixed a little "mule" with some wine tonic and it "went to his head."

Rather a fluent talker, he spoke freely and the court had decided to give him a suspended sentence, due to the fact that it was his first appearance in court here, but Lawrence kept on talking and in the meantime the judge changed his mind.

Judge Talbot crossed out "suspended" on the book and entered a fine of $20 instead.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY TAKES ROLE OF SOLOMON WHEN HE AWARDS CUSTODY OF CHILD

The custody of a one-year-old baby was the reported cause of a fight staged at a rooming house at 925 French street, late yesterday, which resulted in the baby, its mother and its two grandmothers being hauled from the house to the police station and then to the district attorney's office, before it was decided with whom the baby was to be placed.

Officer Charles Wolford was called to the rooming house. When he arrived, he reported, he found Mrs. A. R. Harrison, and her mother, Mrs. Robert Lavin, of Yuma, Ariz., attempting to procure Mrs. Harrison's baby, which, according to the police had been left with Mrs.

M. Ulmer, grandmother of the child on the father's side, by the father.

Mrs. Ulmer would not give the mother the child and the mother became insistent to such an extent the police were called.

Wolford didn't like the idea of playing Solomon, so he took the two grandmothers, the mother and the baby down to the police station to let Chief of Police L. C. Rogers decide the issue. Rogers was in, but after hearing the case, he decided his name was not Solomon either, so he sent them all to the district attorney's office.

Here it was decided the baby belonged to the mother.

CHARGES AGAINST COUNTY DISMISSED

The hearing conducted today before Deputy Labor Commissioner J. C. Coulter at the city hall on the anonymous charges of employment of alien labor on public works by Orange county, which had been preferred before the commission office at Long Beach by unknown persons, revealed that there was no foundation for the charges and that the county is not employing anyone who is not a citizen of the United States.

"The county should in no way be held responsible for violation of the state law in this matter," Coulter stated in commenting on the matter. "The complaint filed in our office was apparently through malice or misrepresentation and the case has been dismissed so far as our office is concerned."

Hearings on labor complaints are held by a deputy commissioner from Long Beach in the city hall on Fridays as often as there is any business to come up for consideration.

TWELVE WITNESSES IN DIVORCE CASE

Following a hearing in the contested divorce action filed against Earl Thornhill by Fritz Thornhill before Judge G. K. Scovel yesterday, during which 12 persons in addition to the principals in the case testified. The matter was submitted to the court for decision.

Witnesses for the plaintiff were C. D. Flower, Mrs. Nellie Stroh, Mary Trotter, Helen Allen, Harold Johnston and Eugene Olson. The defendant's witnesses were Mrs. Grace Thornhill, Lela Thornhill, El. Marcia Upham, Mrs. Leora M. Smith, Mrs. Lulu Thornhill and Parkey Holt.

EVERY DAY WORTH LIVING

There is no illness so oppressive as an imperfectly functioning stomach—perhaps not serious enough in many cases to be confining, still severe enough to prevent the fullest enjoyment of every day life and the pleasure of performing ones daily duties. To those persons who have habitual or occasional stomach trouble such as gastric hyperacidity, sour stomach, gas, disturbances, bloating, belching, heart burn, bad breath (halitosis), loss of appetite, we unhesitatingly say "Try Plunder's Tablets." To our personal knowledge, this remedy has relieved and corrected hundreds of such cases of stomach trouble, many of which were of a long standing nature. We shall be glad to give further information, and, of course, without obligation.

Indians Snrolled At Capistrano For Pay On U. S. Land

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Dec. 12.—A group of Mission Indians appeared before Government Indian Agent J. T. Rahilly, of Riverside, here yesterday for enrollment in order to receive reimbursement from the department of the interior on land bought over three quarters of a century ago from their ancestors.

It is estimated by the Indian agent that there will be approximately 25,000 California Indians who will share in the government reimbursement. The lands in question for which the Indians are receiving payment were purchased in 1851-52, and cover some 70,000,000 acres. They were to receive $1.25 per acre and the reimbursement will cover the amount of the original payment, plus compound interest since the purchase was made.

Marcus F. Forster, secretary of the Mission Indians' association, assisted in the enrollment.

LIONS MEET AT KETNER'S CAFE HERE THURSDAY

The Santa Ana Lions club, which since its organization eight years ago has been meeting regularly at St. Ann's Inn, held its first meeting at Ketner's cafe yesterday noon, with President Homer Chaney presiding.

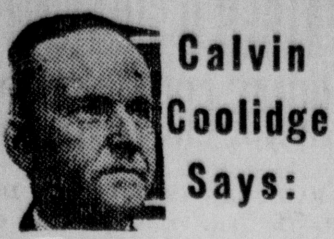

Harry W. Krotz of Long Beach, former Lion International song leader, gave the principal address, which was inspirational in nature and exuded business optimism, confidence in the future of Southern California, and a spirit of community service exemplified by the present Business Confidence campaign which is being sponsored here by the Lions club. Krotz was preceded by Dr. M. W. Hollingsworth with a humorous craft talk. Paul Wallace was chairman of the day, assisted by Harry Hanson and M. W. Hollingsworth. Jack Campbell was introduced as a new member of the club.

Next week's chairman will be F. C. Drumm, assisted by Joe Peterson and Rod Bacon.

MODEL ENGINE

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Despite a physical handicap which forced him to hobble around with the aid of a cane, Henry Devin in the past three years has built one of the most complete model trains in the world. It is a working model of a electric railway, and has 300 feet of track on which it operates. A complete signal system regulates the movements of six tiny trains which he has in operation.

Calvin Coolidge Says:

BY CALVIN COOLIDGE
Former President of the United States
NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Dec. 12.—When there are so many evidences of unreasonable mental disturbances in the country it could not be expected that all official Washington would remain calm and collected. That would not happen under a system of representative government.

What the government needs is not the influence of the disturbed elements of the country so much as the influence of the less vocal but more truly representative elements of caution, reason and sound economics. To arouse these conservative forces into action required vigorous language from the President. He could not sound a fire alarm in whispers. Senator Robinson has displayed good judgment and leadership by refusing to become involved in non-essentials and reiterating his purpose to co-operate in relief measures. The final results of our government are generally sound. The senate or house sometimes starts wrong, but second thought usually sets them on the right track.

The responsible elements in the government, regardless of party, in a situation like the present one, need more public reassurance and support from the conservative forces of the nation. These forces are predominant but they often lack expression. It is time for them also openly to manifest their obligation to co-operate.

CITY OF CATS

ROME, Dec. 12.—Residents in the neighborhood of the newly excavated Tarajan's Forum, certainly do have a lot to put up with these nights. The section is known as the city of cats, and thousands of them make the night uncomfortable with their crying. The animals keep the ruins as their headquarters because numerous shops in the vicinity offer good hunting grounds for food.

TUBERCULOSIS IN CALIFORNIA IS ON DECLINE

With tuberculosis, the "great white killer" retreating before a consistent drive by sixty-one local tuberculosis associations in California, tuberculosis workers are carrying on the twenty-fourth annual seal sale in California.

Under their direction workers are sending forth more than 125 million tiny messages of health—they are the Christmas Seals that for years have been sold at Yuletide to raise money for the fight against tuberculosis.

The fight against tuberculosis has been particularly successful in California, the state association announced yesterday. Since 1900 the tuberculosis death rate has been down from more than 300 per 100,000 population to 107 last year. Although the death rate has been steadily reduced, tuberculosis still puts a costly burden upon our community," says the appeal that went forth from the association. A very large proportion of the cost which the county and state pays for hospitalization is spent in the care of tuberculosis patients. Thousands of dollars more are spent for the care of families made dependent by tuberculosis death or sickness.

"Children in these families have been exposed to the disease. There are probably 150,000 children in California who have been so exposed. These children can be saved, but if care is not given, thousands of them will die in young manhood and womanhood.

"It costs $6,000 to raise a boy or girl from infancy through high school, according to statisticians. The statement continued:

"Not only does humanity demand they shall be saved but economic law points out the waste of spending $6,000 on a child to have it die from neglect and carelessness.

"Money from the sale of Christmas seals will help to do this work."

WHAT A RIOT!

PARIS, Dec. 12.—The French National League Opposed to Smoking is staging a hot battle to eradicate tobacco from the country, but it won't get far if it keeps up its present tactics. Members of the organization recently entered a cafe here and began to snatch cigars and cigarettes from the mouths of astonished patrons. A near riot followed.

ROLPH BOOSTS XMAS SEALS

James Rolph, Jr., for nineteen years as mayor of San Francisco, has always sympathetically fostered the development of anti-tuberculosis work. He took a leading part in the establishment of the Bureau of Tuberculosis and the building of the hospital. The photograph shows Mr. Rolph purchasing his Christmas seals. Left to right: Miss Jean Winfield, Governor-Elect James Rolph Jr., Miss Mignon Willard.

GOVERNOR-ELECT APPEALS TO PEOPLE TO PURCHASE SEALS

Governor-elect James Rolph, Jr., in a statement on the annual Christmas Seals issued by the California Tuberculosis association says:

Throughout the world in the Christmas season, we are accustomed to seeing on our mail those bright little Christmas Seals—colorful emblems of the world-wide fight to stamp out tuberculosis from among mankind.

"In some countries, I am told, these little Christmas Seals are the official government stamps during the yearly campaign of education against the white plague, which we hope some day will not be a leading cause of death.

"California, with its glorious sunshine, does not suffer as do less fortunate regions, but here, too, it is necessary to fight the ravages of this public enemy. "It is with pleasure that I reflect that this year finds the tuberculosis death rate in San Francisco at 90—the lowest in the State's history. In 1912, when I first served as Mayor of San Francisco, the death rate was 197. This progress is due to the world-wide campaign which is being made by the tuberculosis associations.

"Each year they ask us to buy their Christmas Seals which they sell without solicitation and without exploitation, simply by mailing them out and asking that we either purchase the Seals or return them. "It is the little we can do toward the protection of our people against the great public enemy.

"Let us all help our state and local tuberculosis associations in their splendid work."

LOCAL FLIER AND PASSENGER SAFE

Fears that an accident had befallen the plane owned and piloted by Vern Speich, well known Santa Ana flier, and containing a passenger, Miss Vanche Plumb, were dispelled late yesterday when Speich arrived home.

Miss Plumb chartered the plane for a trip to San Francisco. The start was made Tuesday morning. Fog was encountered on the way north and at San Carlos, Speich decided to set the plane down, Miss Plumb boarding a train at that place for San Francisco. Speich left the next day for home.

but at Bakersfield, weather conditions again forced him down and he spent the night in Bakersfield.

THE SCARAB MURDER CASE

A PHILO VANCE STORY
By S. S. VAN DINE

Phil Vance, who with Markham the district attorney, and Heath, the homicide squad, is investigating the murder of Benjamin H. Kyle, the wealthy collector and philanthropist, believes that the evidence against Dr. Bliss, curator of the Bliss Museum of Egyptology, founded by Kyle, is much too obvious. Kyle is found dead in the museum morning by Donald Scarlett, who is employed by Bliss to arrange the rare collection from the tomb of the pharaoh. Scarlett reports the gruesome find to Vance. Kyle has been killed with a statue of the Egyptian god of vengeance.

Heath discovers a bloodstained tennis shoe belonging to Bliss in the doctor's wastebasket in the rooms in which Bliss lives in the museum. A blue scarab set in a stick pin and a sheet of figures compiled by Bliss for a second expedition to the tomb are found under Kyle's hand. Kyle has founded the museum in the interests of his nephew, Salvatore, who is a member of the Bliss household.

Vance discovers something on the ledge where the statue stood which he does not reveal. Finger prints around the base of the statue are proved to be those of Bliss.

Other members of the Bliss household are Hani, an Egyptian, who is devoted to Meryt-Amen (Mrs. Bliss) herself, par Egyptian, Brush, the butler and Dingie, the cook.

Salvatore and Mrs. Bliss have been out since nine o'clock in the morning. Heath demands that Bliss be arrested. Vance says they will be surprised at supplementary evidence.

"Perfect, then, Kyle was found dead directly in front of this end cabinet; and he had died as the result of having been struck over the head by the heavy diorite statue of Sakhmet. This statue, as we know, had been placed by Hani on the top of the cabinet. When I observed that the curtain of the cabinet had been only partly opened and then discovered that the first brass ring of the curtain—the ring on the extreme left end—was not on the rod, I began to speculate—especially as I was familiar with Doctor Bliss's orderly habits. Had that ring been off of the rod last night when Doctor Bliss came into the museum, you may rest assured he would have seen it...."

"Are you suggesting, Vance," asked Markham, "that the ring was deliberately taken off of the rod some time this morning—and for a purpose?"

"Yes! At some time between Doctor Bliss's phone call to Kyle last night and Kyle's arrival this morning, I believe that some one removed that ring from the rod—and, as you say, for a purpose!"

"What purpose?" Heath put the question. His voice was aggressive and antagonistic.

"That remains to be seen, Sergeant." Vance spoke with scarcely any modulation of tone. "I'll admit I have a rather definite theory about it. In fact, I had a theory about it the moment I saw the position in which Kyle's body lay and learned that Hani had placed the statue atop the end cabinet. The partly drawn curtain and the unstrung brass ring substantiated that theory."

"I think I understand what's in your mind, Vance," Markham nodded slowly. "Was that why you inspected the top of the cabinet and got Hani to show you exactly where he had placed the statue?"

"Precisely. And not only did I find what I was looking for, but Hani confirmed my suspicions when he pointed to the spot where he had set the statue. That spot was several inches back from the edge of the cabinet; but there was also a deep scratch at the very edge and a second outline of the statue's base in the dust, showing that the statue had been moved forward after Hani had put it in place."

"But Doctor Bliss admitted he moved it last night before retiring," suggested Markham.

"He said only that he had straightened the statue," Vance answered. "And the two impressions made in the dust by the front of the statue's base are exactly parallel, so that the adjustment to which Doctor Bliss referred could not have been the moving of the statue six inches forward."

"I see what you mean.... Your theory is that some one moved the statue to the very edge of the cabinet after Doctor Bliss had straightened it. And it's not an unreasonable assumption."

"Heath, who had been listening sullenly with half-shut eyes, suddenly mounted one of the chairs in front of the cabinet and peered over the moulding.

"I want to see this," he mumbled. Presently he descended and wagged his head heavily at Markham. "It's like Mr. Vance says, all right... But what's all this hocus-pocus to do with the case?"

"That's what I'm endeavoring to ascertain, Sergeant," smiled Vance. "It may have nothing to do with it. On the other hand...."

He leaned over and, with considerable effort, lifted the statue of Sakhmet. (As I have said, the statue was about two feet high. It was solidly sculptured and had a heavy thick base. I later lifted the statue to test it, and I should say it weighed at least thirty pounds.) Vance, stepping on a chair, placed the statue, with great precision, on top of the cabinet at the very edge of the moulding. Having carefully superimposed its base over the outlines in the dust, he drew the curtain shut. Then he took the free brass ring in his left hand, turned the corner of the curtain back until the ring reached the left-hand edge of the statue, tipped the statue to the right, and placed the ring just under the forward edge of the statue's base.

Having done this, he reached into his coat pocket and drew forth the object he had found on the top of the cabinet. He held it up to us.

"What I discovered, Markham," he explained, "was a three-inch section of a pencil, carefully cut and trimmed. I assumed that it was a home-made 'upright' such as is used in figure-4 traps.... Let us see if it works."

He tipped the statue forward and propped the piece of pencil under the rear edge of the statue's base. He took his hands away, and the statue stood leaning toward us, perilously balanced. For a moment it seemed as if it might topple over of its own accord, but the prepared pencil was apparently the exact length necessary to tilt the statue forward without quite upsetting its equilibrium.

"So far my theory checks," Vance stepped down from the chair. "Now, we will proceed with the experiment."

He moved the chair to one side, and arranged the two sofa pillows over the spot where Kyle's head had lain at the foot of Anubis. Then he straightened up, and faced the District Attorney.

"Markham," he said solemnly, "I present you with a possibility. Regarding the position of that curtain; consider the position of the loose brass ring—under the edge of the statue; observe the tilting attitude of Our Lady of Vengeance; and then picture the arrival of Kyle this morning. He had been informed that the new treasures were in the end cabinet. With the curtain drawn. He told Brush not to disturb Doctor Bliss because he was going into the museum to inspect the contents of the recent shipment."

He paused and deliberately lighted a cigarette. By his slow, lazy movements I knew that his nerves were tense.

"I am not suggesting," he continued, "that Kyle met his end as the result of a death trap. In fact, I do not even know if my reconstructed trap will work. But I am advancing the theory as a possibility; for if the defense attorneys can show that Kyle could have been murdered by some one other than Doctor Bliss—that is, by an absent person—then your case against him would receive a decided setback...."

He stepped over to the statue of Anubis. Lifting up the lower left-hand corner of the curtain, he stood close against the west wall of the museum.

"Let us say that Kyle, after taking his position before this end cabinet, reached out and drew the curtain aside. Now, what would have happened—provided the death trap had actually been set...."

He gave the curtain a sharp jerk to the right. It moved over the rod until it was caught and held halfway across by the brass ring that had been inserted beneath Sakhmet's base. The jar dislodged the statue from its perilously balanced position. It toppled forward and fell with a terrific thud upon the sofa pillows, in the exact spot where Kyle's head had lain.

There were several moments of silence. Markham continued to smoke, his eyes focussed on the fallen statue. He was frowning and thoughtful. Heath, however, was frankly astounded. Apparently he had not considered the possibility of a death trap, and Vance's demonstration had evoked, to a great extent, all his set theories. He glared at the statue of Sakhmet with perplexed amazement, his cigar held tightly between his teeth.

Vance was the first to speak. "The experiment seems to have worked, don't you know. Really, I think I've demonstrated the possibility of Kyle's having been killed alone in the museum. Kyle was rather short in stature, and there was sufficient distance between the top of the cabinet and Kyle's head for the statue to have gained a deadly momentum. The width of the cabinet is only a little over two feet, so that it would have been inevitable that the statue would hit him on the head, provided he had been standing in front of it. And he obviously would have stood directly in front of it when he pulled the curtain. The weight of the statue is sufficient to have caused the terrific fracture of his skull; and the position of the statue across the back of his head is wholly consistent with his having been killed by a carefully planned trap."

Vance made a slight gesture of emphasis. "You must admit, Markham, that the demonstration I've just given you makes plausible the guilt of any absent person, and consequently removes one of your strongest counts against Doctor Bliss, namely, proximity and opportunity. And this fact, taken in connection with the opium found in the coffee, gives him a convincing, though not an absolute, alibi."

"Yes," Markham spoke with deliberate and pensive slowness. "The negative clues you have found tend to counteract the direct clues of the scarab and the bloody footprints. There's no doubt about it; the doctor could present a strong defense...."

"A reasonable doubt, as it were—eh, what?" Vance grinned, but typically legal. As if the mind of man were ever capable of being reasonable!.... And don't overlook the fact, Markham, that, if the doctor had merely intended to brain Kyle with the statue of Sakhmet, the evidences of the death trap would not have been present. If his object was only to kill Kyle, why should the whittled pencil—in the shape of an 'upright'—have been on top of the cabinet?"

"You're perfectly right," Markham admitted. "A shrewd defense attorney could make a shambles of the case I have against the doctor."

"And consider your direct evidence for a moment," Vance seated himself and crossed his legs. "The scarab pin, which was found beside the body, could have been palmed by any one at the conference last, and deliberately placed beside the murdered body. Or, if the doctor had been put to sleep by the opium in his coffee, it would have been an easy matter for the murderer to have taken the pin from the desk this morning—the door into the study, you know, was never locked. And what would have been simpler than to have taken the financial report at the same time, and slipped it into Kyle's dead hand?.... As for the bloody footprints; any member of the household could have taken the tennis shoe from Doctor Bliss's bedroom and made the prints in the blood and then changed the shoe in the waste-basket while the doctor slept under the influence of the opiate.... And that closed east window on the court; doesn't that closed window, with its drawn shade, indicate that some one in the study didn't want the neighbors next door to see what was going on?"

Vance took a slow draw on his cigarette and blew out a long spiral of smoke.

"I'm no Demosthenes, Markham, but I'd take Doctor Bliss's case in any court, and guarantee him an acquittal."

Markham had begun walking up and down, his hands behind his back.

"The presence of this death trap and the opium in the coffee cup," he conceded at length, "casts an entirely new light on the case. It throws the affair wide open and makes possible and even plausible some one else's guilt." He stopped suddenly and looked sharply at Heath. "What's your opinion, Sergeant?"

Heath was obviously in a quandary.

"I'm going cuckoo," he confessed, after a pause. "I thought we had the damn affair sewed up in an air-tight bag, and now Mr. Vance pulls a lot of his subtle stuff and hands the doc a loophole." He gave Vance a belligerent glare. "Honest to Gawd, Mr. Vance, you shoulda been a lawyer." His contempt was devastating.

WESTMINSTER

On Thursday evening the league and C. E. societies will get together on the subject of gifts and plans for the Sunday afternoon visit to the hospital.

Each year at Christmas time the local Christian Endeavor society is in the habit of contributing largely to the sending of homemade candies to San Quentin. This year the societies are sending money to C. E. headquarters instead for the purpose of purchasing candy for the prisoners and on Sunday evening the local society took this special collection, more than getting its quota.

In the junior department of the Sunday school on Sunday morning the girls of Mrs. Henry Snadell's class gave the opening feature of the program, the play, "Remember the Sabbath Day." Five girls, Rose Basse, Mary Eastwood, Dorothy Hell, Lucille Ellington and Ellen Edward presented the interesting play of four acts.

On next Sunday Mrs. J. P. Peterson's class of 11 boys will at the same hour present the play, "Joseph and His Brethren." The class will practice Wednesday evening.

Dr. Russell I. Johnson, local representative of the California Tuberculosis league in the Christmas seal sale, was at the school Monday morning and spoke to the different classes about the stamps and their purpose.

Announcement was made Sunday at the church that the stamps may be purchased locally at the drug store.

Mr. and Mrs. Wells McCoy had as guests Saturday a group of relatives from Corona, including Mrs. Lena Glass and daughter, Marian Glass; Samuel Dickey and Miss Bertha Dickey and Mrs. Mary Baldwin, of Parksburg, Pa., who is visiting in Corona.

The boy in the local school who was thought last week to have scarlet fever, is ill from another cause, it was learned, so this school is free from the disease with the exception of the one teacher, who remains under quarantine but has almost recovered.

Mrs. Alice Hare, who has been spending two weeks with relatives in Ontario, has returned from her pleasant vacation.

Mrs. Winifred Morris spent Monday in Huntington Beach where she was a guest at a bridge luncheon at the home of Mrs. Lynn Robb.

Mrs. H. B. Anderson and Miss Leora Blakey visited Sunday with Mrs. Lucy Stoves in Orange.

Clyde Day, Charles Sisler, Francis Penhall and Raymond Penhall went quail hunting Sunday, above Corona.

Three new pupils have entered the Westminster school during the week from Barber City, Ruth, June and Donald McArthur. One is in kindergarten, the other two in higher grades.

Wallace Zeroll, who has been a student in the Westminster school, has enrolled at Garden Grove, the family having moved to that district.

OLINDA

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ryan and son, Junior, of Ventura, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Ryan and family while on their vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Rene Richards and son and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Campbell spent Sunday at Balboa at a clam bake.

A. I. Brown attended the Notre Dame-U. S. C. football game in Los Angeles Saturday.

Mrs. E. H. Letbetter and Mrs. Walter Drake spent Monday afternoon with Mrs. Ralph Bennett.

WARNS PUBLIC

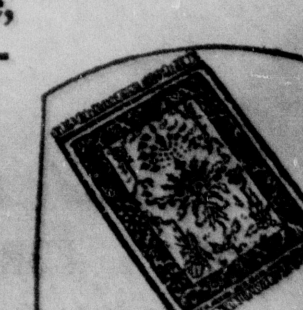

DR. GRACE KIRKLAND, M. D., well known woman doctor, warns against continued use of drastic purgatives.

"Ten years medical practice has convinced me that persons suffering from functional debility as indicated by pasty complexions, faulty digestion, poor assimilation, chronic or occasional constipation, acidity, gas, unrefreshing sleep, nervousness, biliousness and toxic headaches, should shun the frequent use of calomel, salts, oils or other drastic, habit-forming purgative drugs.

"After observing the action of Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills in a great many cases I feel free to say I have never seen a formula as uniformly effective as the Sargon treatment for the disorders mentioned above. I have seen countless cases of wonderful results from the use of Sargon, and I consider it a real privilege to recommend this remarkable new treatment."

Dr. Kirkland is a resident of Atlanta, Ga. Sold by Schramm-Johnson, Drugs, Agents, 4th and Sycamore Sts.—Adv.

STORY OF INDIA IS RELATED AT ROTARY SESSION

ORANGE, Dec. 12.—The interesting story of "The India of Today" was related yesterday at the regular meeting of the Rotary club by Dr. Dalip Singh Saund, of Bombay, who was the speaker at the November meeting of the Men's Service club at the Trinity Episcopal church.

Marion Flippen was chairman of the day and introduced the speaker who explained the theory of Mahatma Gandhi, Indian leader, in his campaign of "passive resistance." The speaker said that India had been bound for more than 200 years and compared the movement of the people of India to free themselves from British rule to that of the Americans in the revolution of 1776.

The significance of the spinning wheel in India, which is now placed on the Indian flag, was told by Dr. Saund. The tax on salt is one of the chief rulings of the British which is being disputed the speaker said, as he explained how natives of India have been forbidden to extract salt from the ocean waters which surround India on three sides but have been obliged to buy the salt they used.

A musical program was given with D. C. Cianfoni in trombone solos and Mrs. Margaret Baker of the Santa Ana Conservatory of Music in vocal solos.

It was announced that the Christmas program would be given on December 18.

PUPILS BRING YULE GIFTS AT NEXT ASSEMBLY

ORANGE, Dec. 12.—A variation has been planned for the annual Christmas assembly at the Orange union high school which has been given for a number of years just previous to the closing of school for the Christmas vacation. The assembly this year will be held next Wednesday and the usual Christmas tree will be placed in the main hall rather than on the stage of the auditorium.

It is planned to have Santa Claus present to receive the gifts, which will be brought by students and which will be distributed to needy families.

The program is sponsored by the Girls' league and the Boys' forum. A short play is to be presented by members of the third period drama class and carols will be sung by the school glee clubs.

STIRBLING, GRIFFITH MEET TONIGHT

Oliver Recommends 18 Saints For Letters

THREE VETS TO RECEIVE ARIEL HONOR JERSEYS

Eighteen members of the 1930 Santa Ana high school football squad today were recommended for varsity sweaters and letters by Coach "Tex" Oliver.

Between eight and ten other grid-ders, as yet unnamed, will receive minor monograms, the coach announced.

Oliver's recommendations will go to the student body of control which in turn will vote the awards which will be formally presented in a school assembly after the Christmas holidays.

Heading the list of lettermen were three veterans who saw three years of service in the Saint spangles—Captain Alvin Reboin, quarterback; Harold Pangle, full-back, and Donald Crumley, half-back.

Captain Reboin, Pangle and Crumley all will receive the coveted Ariel sweater for which only three-year service athletes are eligible. This will be Reboin's second Ariel jersey. He won three letters in track also.

Lettermen beside the trio are Hideo Higashi, end; Dallas Reichstein, guard; Lawrence Lutz, tackle; Joe Preininger, tackle; "Tox" Blower, end; Roy Harvey, center; "Red" Kidder, halfback; Jimmy Daneri, end; "Porky" Bell, halfback; Tom Beasley, guard; Gilbert Meisinger, end; Bill Donahue, tackle; Glenn Minter, tackle; Max Wilson, halfback, and Garth Olsen, guard.

Reboin, Pangle and Higashi all saw the most service in conference games. They played in 28 of a possible 28 quarters. Reichstein appeared in 25 quarters. Other service periods follow: Lutz and Preininger, 24; Blower, 21; Harvey, 20; Kidder, 18; Daneri, Bell and Beasley, 17; Meisinger, Donahue and Minter, 14; Wilson and Crumley, 13 and Olsen, 10.

"Tex" Oliver, Santa Ana coach, was fairly well satisfied with the teams selected by Coast league newspapermen and announced in The Register Saturday.

He was pretty hostile that his big fullback, Harold Pangle, should have been ignored, however.

"No team could have been selected fairly without Pangle appearing either on the first or second squad," Oliver stormed.

Huntington Beach will put on its second annual pre-season basketball tournament next week—Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Every school that participates each year in the Southern Counties track and field meet at the Seaside city has been extended an invitation.

Holding pre-season tournaments is a novelty in the west, although the idea went over big last winter when Chaffey won the championship at Huntington Beach. Incidentally, Chaffey went right on to capture the Southern California ribbon, too, so its win at Huntington was no fluke.

John Thurman, Pasadena coach, picked a pretty lame All-Coast league football team.

He named a line composed of Smith, Long Beach, and Daneri, Santa Ana, ends; Hall, San Diego, and Parks, Long Beach, tackles; Lundy, Woodrow Wilson, and Burchar, San Diego, guards; Carpenter, Compton, center.

Half the forwards Thurman picked were not even regulars on their respective teams.

The Pasadena coach did better with his backfield. He honored Reboin, Franklin, Warburton and Wotkyns.

PADDOCKS OFF FOR HAWAII HONEYMOON

PASADENA, Dec. 12.—Charles Paddock, internationally known sprinter, and his bride, the former Mrs. Neva Prisk Malaby, today were planning a honeymoon in Hawaii.

Paddock and Mrs. Malaby were married last night by the Rev. Robert Freeman, pastor of the Pasadena Presbyterian church, in the residence of the bride's father, Charles H. Prisk, newspaper publisher.

Paddock, since his graduation from the University of Southern California, has lectured throughout the country, and now is studying law at U. S. C. and writing a sports column for Prisk's newspaper.

Art Shires Signs For Part In Play

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 12.—(INS)—Art Shires, major league baseball player and erstwhile publicist, today admitted he was following—with big strides—the path followed by Booth and Mansfield.

Shires announced he had been signed as leading man in Roland Brown's latest play "Punch Drunk," a satire on professional boxing.

New Mentor Bear Leader Off To Sign

BERKELEY, Cal., Dec. 12.—(INS)—Seeking a coach to lead the University of California out of the football wilderness, W. W. Monahan, graduate manager, today was enroute east to have a confab with numerous prospects. The names of ten men have been mentioned in connection with the position. Monahan has not indicated which of these men, if any, had the inside track on securing the position.

TUSTIN TRIMS INEXPERIENCED SAINT QUINTET

Taking advantage of wildness on the part of the Saint basketball tossers as well as displaying a flashy offense for so early in the season, Coach Bill Cole's Tustin Farmers loomed as a big threat on the basketball horizon today after drubbing Santa Ana high school, 27 to 13, in a practice affair at Andrews gymnasium yesterday.

Bill Cook, Saint coach, is having to build his squad from the ground up and practically his entire team is composed of football players who have just reported for practice. The ex-gridders did quite well for their first game of the season but were no match for the alert Farmers who won the Orange County league title last year.

Santa Ana took the lead at the outset but proved unable to stop a spirited Tustin rally in the latter part of the first half, which left the score 18 to 9 for the Bear-pickers at the intermission. "Ben" Thiery, Tustin redhead, led the visitors and collected 10 points for his stellar department on the Santa Ana floor.

Hideo Higashi, an All-Coast league end in football, was outstanding for Santa Ana at forward and also was high scorer with five points. Maxon Stull, tall center; Alvin Reboin, running guard, and Allen Kidder, forward, also showed flashes of good basketball.

Although Thiery took the spotlight for Tustin, Wetzel, Holmes, Crafts and Carlson all handled the case in fine fashion.

The lineup:

Santa Ana (13) (27) Tustin
Kidder (4).....F.....(10) Thiery
Higashi (5).....F.....(9) Crafts
Stull (4).....C.....(4) Riner
Reboin (4).....G.....(4) Holmes
Pangle (4).....G.....(4) Lindsey

Substitution:
Santa Ana—Lash for Kidder, Bragg for Higashi, Jacques for Stull, Palmer for Reboin, Lutz for Pangle, Blower for Lutz, Kidder for Lash, Higashi for Bragg, Stull for Jacques, Reboin for Palmer, Pangle for Lutz, Mitchell for Reboin.

Tustin—Wetzel (8) for Lindsey, Lawrence (9) for Crafts, Carlson for Holmes, Spangler for Riner, Conkey for Wetzel, Wetzel for Spangler, Riner for Carlson, Lindsey for Conkey, Utis for Lindsey.

BASEBALL WAR ON AS MAJOR, MINOR LEAGUES DEFINITELY SPLIT OVER DRAFT QUESTION

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Baseball, America's national pastime, was definitely split today into two warring factions.

A "war," involving the most important leagues in the country, has been declared. On one side are arrayed the two powerful major leagues—the National and the American—and on the other are the five "big minors," namely: the American association, the International league, the Pacific Coast league, the Western league and the Three E league.

It is a mighty battle of dollars. Now that they have split, both sides are very bitter against each other. They could not reach an agreement on this controversial problem which so vitally affects their pocketbooks but which certainly will stir no tremendous emotions among the bleacher customers. What the fans wanted to read about was news of trades and this draft business put an end to inter-league transactions.

The little fellows—the minors—departed for their homes this morning threatening to form an alliance that in effect would constitute the creation of a third major league.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—Ben Ticknor may be All-America center and all that, but he doesn't "rate" in Boston society, according to "Audacious," a Boston writer who classifies the Harvard men according to their social prestige in exclusive Back Bay circles. . . . Audacious classifies the Harvard students in four groups, A-1, B, C and Z. . . . and Ticknor, who is a scion of one of New York's wealthiest families residing in an ultra-select part of New York's Park avenue, didn't even rate a "Z," though he is one of the best-liked men on the campus. . . . The A-1 students are those invited to all the smartest debutante affairs. . . . two Harvard football players were named in this select group: Charlie Devens and Charlie Cunningham (the swiftness!). . . . Art Hugelley of Swampscott, who caught the forward passes that beat Yale, was given a "Z" rating, which means he is invited to affairs where the crowd is just a bit large, you know, old fellow, and most democratic. . . . Haw Haw!

CLEVER, THOSE ITALIANS
Pidel La Barba, Tony Canzoneri and Billy Petrolle—all of Italian descent—have been at the top of the heap lately. The way these Italians have been knocking the boys off lately, it wouldn't be surprising to see Canzona as next heavyweight champion. At any rate, an Italian boy is pretty sure to win the flyweight championship bout December 26 at the Garden when Midget Wolgast and Frankie Genaro exchange animosities. They're both sons of Italy.

WATCH FOR FREDDIE
Freddie Singleton, the Alabama tackle of whom a lot of young men from Washington State are going to have their hands full in the Rose Bowl, is not only a big man mauler, but a smart fellow. He is 6 feet 3 inches tall, and weighs about 215 without his Phi Beta Kappa key, which means as much to Freddie as All-America fame. When summer comes around again, if ever, Freddie will be handed a diploma by Alabama—and his age is just 20 years. In eight games this year, eight first downs were made

Tickets For Big Game To Be Sold Here

Believe it or not—but the common, ordinary run of football fan is going to get a break. A block of 100 tickets for the Tournament of Roses game at Pasadena January 1, between Washington State and Alabama, will go on sale here next Wednesday morning.

They will be available—the tickets themselves, not application blanks—at the Santa Ana Book store, 208 West Fourth street.

Robert L. Brown, proprietor, has arranged for the ticket sale. He said he thought the seats would be "satisfactory."

ARMY, NAVY IN SECLUSION FOR CHARITY GAME

By HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Less than 24 hours from now the Army and Navy will be busy resuming athletic relations for the benefit of the unemployed on the grass of Yankee stadium—and blame New York is excited about it.

To be sure, the relation is only temporary and probably will leave the two academies farther apart than a hawk could fly in a week. But the 70,000 persons who will watch the game Saturday are not interested in next year's schedule.

The ticket sale, which started slowly, was booming today. Only some 10 or 12 thousand pastebards remained unsold and they were going fast. If they are sold, the game will be watched by a capacity crowd of 80,000.

Navy, 60 strong including coaches, trainers, officers and Bill the Goat, arrived late yesterday. The midshipmen will hold their final practice this afternoon in the stadium in order to become accustomed to the field and the winds that make catching and kicking a football something of an art.

Army also broke camp yesterday but came no closer to New York than the Bronx. The game will be played on the field of the stadium, familiar with which championships are determined, presented the trophy at the annual dinner given the Notre Dame team last night.

DIXIE FIGHTER 2-1 CHOICE IN CHICAGO BOUT

By CLAIR KELLY
(I. N. S. Sports Writer)

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—W. L. ("Young") Stribling, the one sensational performer of a drab year in heavyweight affairs, risks his acclaimed position at the head of the challenging crowd here tonight when he faces the Chicago candidate, "Tuffy" Griffith, in a 10-round bout at Chicago stadium.

This row between Dixie's heavyweight hope and the leading middle-western challenger will have a significant part in shaping the subsequent trend in the big class for 1931. With Lieutenant Stribling it is a matter of defending his prestige that he has acquired this year, while with Griffith tonight's bout offers the one chance to hurdle into a commanding spot as a contender for Max Schmeling's crown.

The importance of the bout has caught on with the public to the extent that the turnstiles are expected to show an intake of more than $100,000, according to estimates. Twenty-two thousand are expected to witness the bout.

On the assumption that Stribling, through his decisive victories over Otto Von Porat and Phil Scott, has hit the stride to make him an invincible heavyweight, The Georgian is generally picked to defeat the Sioux City opponent. The Southerner has been a steady 2 to 1 choice it is said, although little wagering has been reported.

No one who witnessed Stribling's deft workmanship in flattening Von Porat last July is inclined to choose Griffith although it is generally conceded that Griffith will give the Georgian a more busy evening than did Von Porat.

Griffith, trained in the best form of his career, according to observers, is expected to provide the critical test of Stribling's present championship campaign and if the mid-westerner can emerge with a victory he will supplant Lieutenant Stribling as the American challenger of the moment, critics agree.

Both men are expected to be at approximately the same weight when they step on the scales this afternoon. Griffith, when he concluded his training Wednesday, tipped the scales at 187 pounds while Stribling is reported to be a shade under this figure.

Griffith's rolling, bobbing style together with his exceptional speed for a man of his size is expected to give the Georgian some trouble. He does not present an easy

RAMBLERS WIN JULIA LATHROP CONTEST. 18-0

The hardest fought intermural football game was played on the Julia C. Lathrop junior high school field yesterday. Coach Lewis Cottrell's Ramblers took the contest with a score of 18-0, defeating Coach Freddie Southworth's Panthers. Although the Panthers were slated to take the contest they were completely upset by the bag of tricks unleashed by Cottrell and his squad.

The first Rambler touchdown came as a result of a 50-yard run by Fullback Leroy Levens. In the second quarter the two elevens were embattled in the middle of the field and it wasn't until the first of the second half that the Rambler halfbacks forged into Panther territory again and when 20 yards from the goal, Levens again took the oval for a touchdown.

In the third period the Panthers lost the ball on downs and the Rambler team started on another touchdown march. Tommy Hamill carrying the pigskin on the scoring play this time.

Of all the lightweight division football teams, the Ramblers have presented the strongest, fastest, and smoothest-working offense from the standpoint of execution of their plays. They engage the Grizzlies for the lightweight championship

Monday and as they have a much better record, they are doped to win.

Today the middleweight championship title will be decided when the Tigers and the Huskies mix it at the southside institution. Levens and Hamill played stellar football in the Rambler backfield while Lester Cottrell shone on the line. Hilligass and Clem starred for the losers, playing "heads up" football all the time.

The lineup:

Ramblers (18)	(0) Panthers
Dodd REL	Spell
Kendall RT	Clem
Connell Cottrell RGL	Towler
Wade C	Howell
Patmore L	Boyd
Broune LTR	Lee
Hallman LTR	Kennedy

target for Stribling or any one else. Griffith is not a heavy puncher and if he succeeds in winning, it more than likely will be by a decision.

TWO GIVEN HEAVY FINES IN COURT

Two men, arrested last night by city officers on charges of driving automobiles while under the influence of liquor, were in police court this morning where both were fined.

William A. Richardson, a printer, of 212 East Stafford street, was fined $200 and Theron D. Block, 22, of 105 North Olive street, was fined $150. Both charges had been reduced to reckless driving before the defendants pleaded.

Richardson was arrested at 1:10 a. m. today at First street and Western avenue, and Block was arrested at First and Bush streets at 11 o'clock last night.

We've spent thousands on new roads and new schools and new automobiles and now this and that. Still we expect the kids to play in the streets—and then we kick 'em off when they play to realistically. There are no public playgrounds here except on school property.

Orv Schuchardt, brilliant Santa Ana night baseball outfielder, is not likely to parttime with the Stars this summer.

Nor is he liable to wear an Anaheim monkey-suit.

Schuchardt intends to skip out for the midwest early in the spring and join the Waterloo club of the Mississippi Valley league. He thinks he will stand a better show in that circuit than in the Coast league where the company is now composed largely of lagging veterans.

Santa Ana junior college was the only football team in Southern California this year to play Menlo, the Northern California jaycee champions who invade Compton Saturday in quest of a state title.

Since the Santa Ana Dons also played Compton their opinion as to the impending contest is of more than passing interest.

Most of the critics favor Menlo, a team that has rolled up a tremendous point-total while crushing all opposition. Yet many of the Dons figure Compton stands an even chance of winning despite the fact that they tied Compton 6-6 and lost to Menlo, 20-0.

There is a catch to the comparative scoring, however. Santa Ana "shot the works" against Compton and was decisively outplayed although the Tartars fumbled enough to give the Dons numerous chances to win.

The Dons started their second string against Menlo, spotted the big Northerners a pair of touchdowns. Then Coach Cook rushed in the regulars and they had the uphinder the rest of the day. Menlo scored again as a result of an 80-yard run with an intercepted pass but the Santa Ana backs were knocking at the Menlo goal throughout the last three quarters.

He is an excellent hockey player, a mountain climber, fair at tennis and pretty useful at rugby (football). He refuses to train, to concentrate, to break records and also whenever an international sporting contest rolls around he is sure to lose.

It must be true, John, especially as concerns the heavyweight boxers.

Seeks To Halt Theft Of Xmas Trees In County

Sheriff's officers and members of the Orange county fruit patrol were today appealed to stop the stealing of "Christmas" trees in the county.

Carl Swartzbaugh, who resides a mile west of the county hospital on Chapman avenue, reported to the sheriff's office today that a number of little cedar and pine trees had been taken from his property recently.

The theft was made at night, he reported and he asked that the officers aid him in keeping his "Christmas" trees at home.

Court Notes

William V. and Evelyn S. Mathews filed suit in superior court yesterday against Marie H. Thurston asking judgment of $5021.83 as deficiency on a note. It is stated in the complaint that property securing an $8000 note was sold when there was delinquency on the payments of the note, but that the property only brought $4000, which left a balance of $2978.17 to apply to the principal after interest and costs were paid.

Petition for probate of the will of Margaret V. Williams was filed today with County Clerk J. M. Backs by Walter Williams. The estate is valued at $4100, according to the petition. Two sons, Ed Williams and Walter Williams, are the only beneficiaries of the will.

Pronouncement of judgment in the case against Ray Lamar, which was scheduled to be made today by Judge G. K. Scovel, was continued until January 2. The defendant is charged with uttering a forged check for $42.

Police News

Josh Pyle, who resides near Midway City, reported to the sheriff's office last night that his gasoline tank, filled with fuel, was stolen by thieves.

Burglars who broke into the service station of E. B. Sadler, at Seventeenth street and the Huntington Beach road, stole cigars, cigars and tires worth $75, according to a report filed with the sheriff's office.

Ray Taylor, 26, of 923 Minter street, charged with being drunk, was arrested at Second and French streets early last night by city officers. He was lodged in the county jail.

Anthony Guera, 19, sailor on the U. S. S. Oklahoma, anchored at San Pedro, was arrested last night on a charge of breaking glass on the pavement in front of the Holgate hotel. Officers were questioning a friend of Guera's when he suddenly appeared, saw the uniforms and hurriedly broke his bottle, it was reported. Otherwise he might not have been noticed.

Roy Rios, 25, of 645 Ceras street, Los Angeles, was arrested there yesterday on a warrant from the Santa Ana police department charging issuance of a fictitious check. He was returned to jail here by Santa Ana officers last night.

Andrew McClean, 41, of Brooklyn, was arrested on a drunk charge by city officers last night. He was found on East Second street.

PRINCIPALS OF COUNTY BOOST SCHOOL SURVEY

Further endorsement of the proposed county wide educational survey which has been requested of the board of supervisors was made at the regular meeting of the Orange county high school principals association held Thursday afternoon in the Santa Ana high school, when representatives of all high school districts, the associated chambers of commerce and the Farm Bureau were present for a discussion of the matter. The meeting adopted a resolution urging the supervisors to proceed with the matter and to make the necessary appropriation to finance the project and a committee was appointed, at the request of the meeting, by D. K. Hammond, principal of the Santa Ana high school and president of the association, to carry the proposition before the supervisors next Tuesday.

The survey was originally sought by the Santa Ana and Fullerton boards and the Associated chambers of commerce. A protest from citizens of Fullerton was presented in opposition to the matter at the board meeting last Tuesday, after the appearance before the board the previous week of Dr. F. W. Hart, of the University of California, who outlined results that might be expected from the survey.

Ralph McFadden, of the associated chambers of commerce educational committee, presided at the meeting yesterday. Members of the Fullerton board who were present included S. J. Tuffrey and Albert Launer. Fullerton was also represented by Harold Plummer, principal of the high school and Dean W. T. Boyce, dean of the Fullerton junior college. It is reported that there were no protests against the matter at the meeting yesterday. The Farm bureau was represented by Ross Shafer. Members of the committee appointed by Hammond to present the sentiment of the meeting to the supervisors next Tuesday are M. G. Jones, of Huntington Beach, A. Haven Smith, of Orange, and C. O. Harvey, of the Brea-Olinda high school.

Oceanview boys won the league championship with Westminster boys second, and the Hoover school, local Mexican school team, was third in order of the five teams entered in the series.

Basketball is now taking the interest of the children, the line-ups to be made this week with a practice game scheduled for Friday afternoon between the Westminster girls and the Seal Beach girls at Seal Beach.

Miss McMillen and Miss Ward of the local faculty will be in charge of the girls' team, while Prof. James Munroe will have the boys' team.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnsen, both of whom are of the faculty of the local schools, Mrs. Johnsen as principal of the Hoover school and Mrs. Johnsen as teacher of the second grade in the Westminster school, are to return to their respective classes next Monday. Mrs. Johnsen has been absent while convalescing from injuries sustained in an automobile accident and Mr. Johnsen has been absent for several weeks while ill with scarlet fever, the quarantine having materially lengthened the absence of Mrs. Johnsen from school.

Mrs. Mary Johnson, who has been confined to her home for over a week with intestinal influenza, is improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Vander, of Los Angeles, were Friday visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walton.

The subject of the Rev. Mr. Carter's initial sermon was "Blind Alleys" and a special musical number was presented at this service by Mrs. Anna Campbell, choir leader.

Announcement was made of the regular monthly missionary meeting for Wednesday afternoon at the church hall. The foreign subject will be "Persia" and the local subject "The Mormons." Mrs. Hannah Francis and Mrs. Thomas Hosack will be the leaders. The election of officers for the Christian Endeavor society is announced for next Sunday evening and the lesson topic will be "How To Make Others Happy." Miss Marguerite McGuire to lead the meeting.

The league and the Christian Endeavor of the local church have received invitations to take part in the special gift giving which is being held under the auspices of the C. E. of the county on next Sunday afternoon at the Orange County hospital, the cards sent out asking that some little gift, a calendar, candy or flowers be brought for distribution.

The Christian Endeavor society plans on meeting next Saturday evening at the home of the superintendent, Mrs. J. P. Peterson, to make candy for this purpose, the young people being asked to gather at 6:30 o'clock.

Use WINTER FUMIGATION for RED SCALE!

NO MATTER how discouraging the results have been with other methods of red scale control, you can still protect your grove from loss of fruit, killed limbs and reduced crops...by winter fumigation. The facts speak for themselves...actual counts of millions of scale made by trained investigators furnish proof that fumigation is necessary if we are to keep this pest from causing serious damage. Leading entomologists state emphatically that no red scale control program is complete unless it includes fumigation.

Certainly you cannot afford to take a chance on damage to your trees...or impairing the quality and marketability of your crop. Decide now...while there is still time...to use winter fumigation. Get in touch with your local fumigator now and make arrangements for fumigation at the proper time.

AYLMORE AND BURKE OPEN OFFICES HERE

W. Maxwell Burke and Reeves Aylmore have become associated for the general practice of law. They have opened offices in the First National Bank building in Santa Ana. Both of these attorneys have been practicing law for many years, either in California, Washington or Arizona.

Mr. Burke formerly was a deputy district attorney for Los Angeles county and resigned when Asa Keyes was elected. He has been practicing in Santa Ana for the past three years with the firm of Burke, Catlin & Burke, and in Los Angeles for 17 years. That firm will be discontinued by mutual consent.

Mr. Burke was graduated from Oberlin college, received both an A. B. and A. M. degrees. He spent two years at Columbia University where he received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. He was a university professor in economics and political science for several years and in 1910 was admitted to practice law.

He was 14 months with the army in France receiving his discharge in 1919. He is a member of the American Legion.

While his practice has been a general one, he has had much experience in both corporation and the criminal law, as well as in the handling of personal injury cases.

Mr. Aylmore came to Santa Ana from Seattle, where he practiced law for 15 years, in all courts including the supreme court of the United States and the district courts, having graduated from the University of Washington in 1904.

During the war he worked in the shipyards at Seattle, waiting turn to be called as a reserve, having had 10 years training in the National Guard.

After the war closed, he was requested by the then governor of the state of Washington, the late Louis F. Hart, to act as secretary of the state tax investigation committee which position he held until the completion of the committee's work, and the submission of their report to the state legislature.

Mr. Aylmore came to California in 1922 to Ventura county to assist in the development of an oil property.

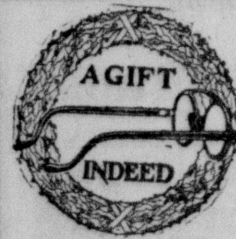

He came to Santa Ana to live in 1926 by reason of a promise to an old friend and former client from the Northwest, O. S. Lewis. This promise was made in June of 1926 and in November its fulfillment was suddenly demanded, requiring Mr. Aylmore to make his permanent home in Orange county. The promise referred to was to act as executor and trustee of the estate of his friend, He qualified as executor in January, 1927, and ever since that time has spent practically the entire time in untangling the intricate provisions of his friend's will and preserving the estate, and in doing so has been able to give special attraction to probate practice, the making of wills and trusts, and the handling of estates under the California laws. In going into the active practice here Mr. Aylmore expects to specialize in this branch of the law.

EDUCATION IS SUBJECT OF DR. KNOPF'S ADDRESS GIVEN BEFORE HIGH SCHOOL P.-T. A.

An audience of approximately 600 persons greeted Dr. Carl S. Knopf of the University of Southern California, last evening when he appeared before the high school and junior college Parent-Teacher association in the high school auditorium.

With "Civilizing Willie" as his theme, Dr. Knopf reviewed the educational theories extant from the time of Socrates, the great teacher, to the modern day, and decried alike the fallacies of each. "We can neither 'lead out' from the mind something it has not, nor reap results from a mere cramming of facts into it," declared Dr. Knopf in discussing the two educational theories which dominated teaching methods up to the nineteenth century. In an equally vigorous fashion the noted educator disposed of "self-expression," pseudo-psychology based on animal experimentation which attempts to mechanize or standardize human behavior, and the present day demand for vocational education in which the student never sees beyond the cash register aspect of life.

"Educational surveys of the nation reveal the fact that while California ranks fifth in total wealth and third in the money per child we fall to rate higher than twenty-third in the allotment of that wealth to education, and only fourteenth in the percentage of money per child devoted to educational purpose," he declared. "A great forward stride has been taken through increasing the total number of teachers 76 per cent, their salaries 258 per cent, and the capital outlay on teaching equipment 569 per cent, but the fact remains that California is a rich state with resources comparatively untouched, whose educational system demands further adequate development.

"The complete civilization of Willie demands that there shall be no hyphen in parent teacher," concluded Dr. Knopf, "but rather the name indicates, each parent must assume his responsibility as a teacher also." The modern theory of education as set forth by the speaker, likens the child to a coil of wire which when brought within the field of another coil charged by an electric current, becomes magnetized from the contact. The greatest problem before parents today is to see that the field of contact established about the child by the teacher is carried into the wider sphere of influence in the home and

RATES ON AUTO INSURANCE ARE BOOSTED AGAIN

An alarming increase in the severity of losses sustained by insurance companies on public liability risks is the cause of the 25 per cent increase in rates for this form of insurance which went into effect in the state on November 24, it was revealed yesterday by George Gould, Santa Ana insurance agent.

The new rates, it is stated by insurance company officials are in fact lower than those which should have been in force in 1929. Auto public liability insurance companies which are members of the national bureau of casualty and surety underwriters have sustained severe underwriting losses in this form of insurance during 1928, 1927, 1926 and 1929. It is asserted, and similar losses have been experienced over this period by non-conference companies.

"A study of the experience tables shows a sharp and steady upward trend in the loss per car in California," Gould quoted from a letter on the subject. "The average passenger car loss in 1929, which was $21.22, is 58 per cent higher than it was in 1926, when the figure was $13.45. The increase in the city of Los Angeles is more marked than the state as a whole. The loss here was $12.93 per car in 1926 and $25.98 per car in 1929."

The increase in losses is continuing during 1930, Gould stated, calling attention to the figures of the motor vehicle department of the state, which shows that there is an increase of 19 per cent in the number of persons injured and deaths due to autos for the first six months of 1930 in relation to the same period in 1929.

Insurance companies are urging safety precautions in driving to combat these losses, Gould declared.

ties as to their "pasts" prior to the wedding are said to play a part in the evidence produced by both sides, but the public has been excluded from the hearings. The husband completed presentation of his side of the case Wednesday night, and Mrs. Davis is today completing her testimony in the trial.

MISSIONARY TO SPEAK TONIGHT IN S. A. CHURCH

An unfrequented part of the world, and a people so little known as to be strange and mysterious, have a fascination for most everyone. Robert Cunningham, of the China Inland Mission, can tell the story of such a land and people—Tibet and the Tibetans.

Mr. Cunningham has spent 20 years on the Tibetan border, residing in China, as resident in Tibet is denied foreigners, but working among the Tibetans.

To the missionary as well as the trader, Tibet is "The Great Closed Land." Because of its high altitude it is often spoken of as "The Roof of the World." Religiously, Tibet is "The Land of the Lama," as it is ruled over by this highly organized system of priests—ignorant and superstitious, whose lamaseries are dark haunts of wickedness and vice. No country needs more the Messenger of Christ, yet none has, thus far, more firmly resisted the Gospel.

This missionary has had some thrilling experiences in that land, mountain passes 13,000 feet in elevation to be traversed merely to reach the country from his part of China, dangers from man and beast and elements. He is one of the leading authorities in China on Tibet and things Tibetan. His articles on that country and people have always been sought by leading China papers. His pictures of Tibet have found their way into such publications as the National Geographic.

Mr. Cunningham's illustrated talks about his journeys into Tibet are very interesting as well as informing. He has a large number of very fine views. His lecture at Christian and Missionary Alliance church tonight affords a rare opportunity to hear of the missionary work among his people. The China Inland Mission does not appeal for funds and no collection will be taken.

You, Too, Can Have Convenience in Your New Home

Insist on the Red Seal Wiring Plan

Just fifteen years ago it became customary to put electric wiring in all new buildings. Since that time the uses to which electric service has been applied have so increased that it has been almost impossible for those not closely associated with the industry to keep up with its growth. For that reason a great majority of the homes built in this territory are inadequately wired.

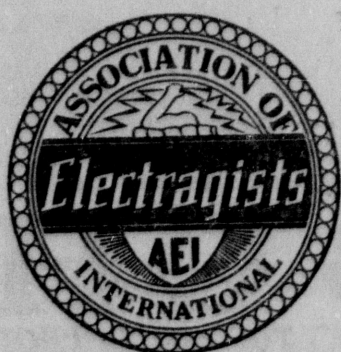

The electrical industry therefore offers the National

Red Seal Plan of wiring to builders, owners and contractors as a standard installation, adequate to meet both present and future demands for the use of electricity for comfort and convenience, and to "electrocute household drudgery." In its many uses, electricity has now become a household necessity, in fact any woman these days who does anything which a little electric motor can do is working for 3c an hour.

This is the electrical age, and residential property adequately wired for electrical comfort is easier to rent or to sell.

The NATIONAL RED SEAL PLAN of wiring is simply a specification as to the outlets needed for electric comfort in the home, studied from the viewpoint of the character of each room. Thus you can make electricity a servant who follows or precedes you from room to room, ready at every point to light your way and lighten your burdens. This standard has been prepared and endorsed by the entire electrical industry.

If you will allow us, we will lay out for you, free of charge, the specifications for your electrical wiring. In this way you will be relieved of the unnecessary expense of having extra outlets added later at a greater cost per outlet. You may then decide who is to do the actual work, being guided in choosing your electrical contractor, by a high reputation rather than by a low bid.

Bridge Group Included Husbands As Guests At Dinner Party

Making their December meeting complimentary to their husbands, members of a friendly little bridge club usually meeting in the afternoon, held an evening party instead when they assembled last night in the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Hatch, 930 South Ross street.

Dinner served at 7 o'clock, was a delightful introduction to the evening of bridge, and was marked by colorful appointments and a delectable menu stressing the holiday season. Covers were laid for Dr. and Mrs. Hatch, Mr. and Mrs. George Richardson and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Pinkham of this city; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Fulson, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Wentz, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Newsom and Mr. and Mrs. Claire Head of Garden Grove, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scott of Artesia.

Although bridge was the diversion of the after-dinner hours, chief interest centered in the merry gift exchange which yielded a Christmas present for each member and guest.

Orange Hostess Greets S. O. A. Clubwomen

Very enjoyable was the meeting on Wednesday of members of the S. O. A. club in the home of Mrs. George Merriman in Orange, as the affair celebrated the organization of the club one year ago in the home of the hostess.

Yellow and lavender baby chrysanthemums were used in the home and a delectable 1 o'clock luncheon was served. Pink tapers adorned the dining table, and an effective decoration was an imitation cake fashioned by Mrs. Daisy McGee in pink, with tiny pink candles.

In the card games of the afternoon, Mrs. McGee and Mrs. George Merriman scored first and second high and Mrs. S. M. Higgins was consoled.

Those sharing Mrs. Merriman's hospitality were Mesdames S. A. Sissons, B. H. Bauman, Anaheim; William Batt, S. M. Higgins, Orange; Daisy McGee, Leland Dubank and D. H. Thompson, Santa Ana.

University Women Held Enjoyable Party In Orange Clubhouse

Orange members of the American Association of University Women, who last night had charge of the December meeting and Christmas party of the Orange county branch, were acclaimed as most gracious hostesses by the county college women who shared the pleasant event held in the Orange Woman's clubhouse.

Mrs. R. C. Patton, general chairman, and her committee, greeted the arrivals in the pleasant foyer of the clubhouse, where a fire, blazing cheerfully on the hearth, and Christmas symbols of many lands, lent the proper holiday atmosphere. Especially intriguing was the little scene of the Nativity which occupied prominent place on the mantel, and which was a German expression of the season.

Each guest, upon arrival, was asked to choose a small hand-painted flag from an assortment of such favors, and later in the evening was expected to seek that section of the room where the large flag of the country in question was prominently displayed. This clever idea furthered the "International Christmas party" theme of the evening.

Miss Lillian Kirkwood, program chairman, presented Miss Norma Tandler, who read O. Henry's famous Christmas tale, "The Gift of the Magi." Miss Hazel Stuke followed with quaint French songs of the Noel season, with Miss Eva Ramsey at the piano. Miss Martha Ehlert talked on "Christmas Customs of Different Lands," and a group of members gave a pageant illustrative of Christmas customs of the United States, Germany and Mexico. In this group were the Misses Starrett, Elijah, Kirkwood, Crawford and Boyle. The formal program ended with German Christmas songs by children from the Flene studio of that city, and the observance of the pinata, the Spanish custom of the pinata. The pinata was simulated in paper, and when it was broken to the musical accompaniment sung by a group of girls trained by Miss Ruth Frothingham, there was a merry scramble for the scattered sweetmeats.

The singers were the Misses Evelyn Wiebe, Marjorie Wood, Jeanne Bishop, Floretta Harmon, Flora Parks and Beatrice Farley. The remainder of the evening was given to enjoyment of the Christmas tree and exchange of gifts, and to the elaborate refreshments served by the Orange clubwomen.

During the business interval, it was decided to present a punch bowl and set of glasses to the Santa Ana Y. W. where general meetings are held. Miss Mary Saffley, education chairman, also presided at an interesting book display for children, arranged through the courtesy of Santa Ana public library and Santa Ana Book store, and Miss Boyer, children's librarian, discussed suitable books for children of varying ages.

Amber Circle Group Held Gift Exchange In Dobson Home

Eleven tables of bridge were in session yesterday afternoon when members of Amber circle met with Mrs. George H. Dobson in her home at 1069 West Fifth street. Luncheon was served at an early hour, with all appointments carrying out the Christmas theme.

A large Christmas tree was attractively decorated, and provided an appropriate setting for the gift exchange. The card games followed, and prizes were awarded to high scorers at each table. The prettily wrapped gifts proved to be choice pieces of the popular black glass ware.

The next meeting will be held at 1 o'clock Thursday, January 8 with Mrs. Henry Diers as hostess in her home at 1115 North Main street.

POPULAR PIANIST

Ione Tunison Peek, who will be the featured artist on a Visel studios recital program to be given tomorrow afternoon in Ebell clubhouse, is one of the leading piano artists of the community. She perfected her technique with a year of study in Paris, and since her return to Santa Ana has continued her work in music in Los Angeles master classes. She is a member of the faculty of the Visel studios.

Recital Program to Be Given Tomorrow In Ebell Clubhouse

Santa Ana Ebell clubhouse will be the scene of an informal program Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock when a group of students from the Visel studios will be presented in vocal, dance, piano, and dramatic numbers.

Piano numbers by Ione Tunison Peek, well known Santa Ana artist, will add to the charm of the program. Mrs. Peek is now a pupil in the artist class of Richard Buhlig, internationally known pianist who is at present conducting master courses in Los Angeles.

Miss Neva Fay Gerdes, recently added faculty member to the dramatic art department of the studio, will present a reading. Dances by Miss Carolyn Wells, pupil of Margaret Ketchum, also a new faculty member, are being anticipated with much interest. It will be remembered by many that five of Margaret Ketchum's pupils have appeared with Fanchon and Marco.

In addition to these feature numbers, the junior and intermediate students of the studios will perform, and the children's chorus of the studio, under the direction of Mrs. Charles G. Nalle, will sing Christmas numbers.

The teachers presenting these students are: Dorothy Jean Blakeley, Dorothea Stuthman, Margaret Ketchum, Ione Tunison Peek, Bertha French, and Holly Lash Visel. Young people to be presented, include Betty June Moore, Ruth Greenwald Mary Boyd, Marilyn Maag, Carl Carlson, Frances Was, Irene Inman, Nancy Lauri, Mary Ashomer, Charles Borchard, Ross Boyd, Glenna Jean Deardorff, Janet McFadden, Harriet Ann McFadden, Jack Northrup, Marjorie Jean Pederson, Henry Segerstrom, Ruth Ann Segerstrom, Betty Jane Ward, Patty Whitson.

Japanese Motif Added Charm to Jaycee Festivity

Eloquent of Japan were the cherry blossoms, gay parasols, and pepper boughs which formed a charming background for the Woman's Athletic association spread given last night for all the girls of the Junior college. The affair was held in Andrew's gymnasium as an end to the basketball season following the play day held at Fullerton last Saturday. An especially attractive feature was seen in the gorgeous Japanese and Chinese costumes worn by the women.

Adding to the enjoyment was the chop suey dinner served with chop sticks, the use of which was new to many of the guests. The entire menu was of a Japanese character, and members and guests sat on cushions in informal groups, for its enjoyment.

Through the efforts of Miss Elsiebell Hurd, program chairman, little Ruth Kadowald and her older sister, Miss Nubico, presented a number of charming Japanese songs with Miss Ruth illustrating her numbers. Completing the program was a clever reading given by Miss Zola Tannenbaum. Dancing completed the delightful evening.

Committees in charge of the affair were Miss Elsiebell Hurd, program chairman; Miss May Hasenjaeger, tickets; Miss Elizabeth Rinkler, menu; Miss Neva McDonald, clean up, and Miss Lorna Allen, publicity.

Civil War Veterans Honored at Annual Dinner Event

Twenty-three comrades were present Wednesday afternoon when Sons and Daughters of Union Veterans were hosts at the annual chicken dinner given for comrades, their wives and widows, in the Knights of Pythias hall. The youngest comrade present was 83 years old and the oldest, 92. A total of 65 guests were on hand to share in the delectable menu and the program which followed.

Red nut-cups and other pretty appointments added to the Christmas motif, while bowls of Japanese persimmons, provided colorful variety. One large bouquet of poinsettias contributed much to the holiday cheer which reigned throughout the afternoon.

The Rev. and Mrs. O. Scott McFarland were visiting guests, with the Rev. Mr. McFarland giving the address of the day. Violin solos were given by Mr. Ramsdale accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Estelle Grey. Other musical numbers were provided by Mrs. Estelle Grey and Mrs. Emma Chapman who sang duets accompanied by Miss Carrie Seaton.

A number of the Civil War veterans and their wives were unable to be present, so five dinners were sent to Orange, four to comrades and their wives and the other to a lone veteran. Three dinners were sent to Santa Anans.

Those in charge of the kitchen and preparations, were Mrs. Cora Hoffman, chairman, and Mrs. Harriet Mitchell, Mrs. Esther Gardner and Mrs. Luella Hill. Others assisting were J. R. Moore, C. S. Millen, Burt Mitchell and C. L. Carpenter.

The dining room committee included Mesdames Lena Hewitt, Pearl Nelson, Florence Perry, Geraldine Beall, Ida May Clem and Miss Bertha Belt.

Dinner Party Held In Trickey Home

Charmingly informal was a little dinner party of last evening with Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Trickey as hosts in their home at 311 West Chestnut avenue. At seven o'clock the tempting menu was served, with table decorations featuring the holiday theme, expressed in sprays of holly.

An evening of cards was enjoyed, and Miss Ellen Young was successful in scoring high.

Those present, other than Mr. and Mrs. Trickey, the hosts, were Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Young, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Trickey, Miss Elleen Young and Fred Young, of Huntington Beach, and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd D. Rayburn of Tustin.

They were accompanied home by Miss Dorothy Stanley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stanley, who is spending several days here, and will return to Oakland with her father, who is in San Francisco for the General Electric convention.

Mrs. Franklin West Was Hostess to Bridge Club

The lovely home of Mrs. Franklin West, 321 East Santa Clara avenue, was the setting for an enjoyable bridge club meeting Wednesday when Mrs. West was hostess. Luncheon was served at one large table whose appointments were artistically carried out with green crystal service and candle holders.

In the bridge games of the afternoon, those scoring high at the various tables were rewarded. Those present other than Mrs. West, were Mesdames Lawrence Bemis, Edwin Van Meter, Charles Doty, Ray Townsend, Rex Barker, Dean Collier, Henry Walker, Hugh Shields, Homer Robinson, E. K. Gerhardt, and Arthur May.

Christmas Meeting Held Yesterday In Haddon Home

The Christmas spirit was charmingly expressed yesterday afternoon when Mrs. W. H. Haddon entertained members of her contract bridge club in her attractive home at 1014 French street. A prettily appointed luncheon preceded the afternoon of cards, and was served at a table centered with a Jolly St. Nicholas climbing out of the chimney. The representation of this beloved holiday character is twenty-three years old, and was brought here from New York by Mrs. Haddon.

A gift exchange was an interesting feature of the day, and took place in the holiday setting which was completed with a host of fancy Christmas tree lights which formed a colorful network on the ceiling.

Those sharing Mrs. Haddon's hospitality were Mesdames M. D. Borgmeyer, B. J. MacMullen, Wade Warner, Bert West, Lloyd Chenoweth, L. G. Swales, Fred Rowland, Philip Hatzfeld, H. B. Van Dien, H. T. Dunning and Alice Harris.

Ebell Members Held Recent Meeting In Clubhouse

A delectable luncheon was served to members of the Second Household Economics section of the Ebell society who met in the clubhouse recently at 1 o'clock. Hostesses were Mrs. A. G. Flagg, Mrs. J. F. Warner, Mrs. Reeves Aylmore and Mrs. Charles D. Brown.

Tables carried out the Christmas effect with tall red tapers and a prettily decorated tree providing a fitting background for the affair. Following the gift exchange there was a short business meeting with Mrs. Ralph Smedley, leader of the section, in charge. A collection was taken for the Ebell Day nursery.

The program of the day featured a talk by Mrs. Harrison, who explained the uses of a number of articles made by a prominent cosmetics company. About 34 members and guests were present.

Hostess Read Clever Original Poem to Club Members

Flaming poinsettias were used throughout the pretty home of Mrs. W. H. Herring, of 523 East Walnut street, when she was hostess to members and guests of her sewing club Tuesday.

The afternoon was pleasantly passed with fancywork and sewing and the hostess who has been a member of the club for ten years, read an interesting paper which she composed about the club members, which was much enjoyed.

At the conclusion of the afternoon, a delicious three-course menu which included creamed chicken with hot biscuits, salad and pumpkin pie was served. Tiny Christmas trees and small turkeys as favors, added a colorful note to the tables.

Mrs. J. H. Mitchell and her houseguest, Mrs. Maude Tindall of Shelbyville, Ind., were special guests, while members present were Mesdames J. W. Elliott, C. W. Rairdon, F. W. Harding, A. C. Quiet Wedding Took Place Last Night In Orange

A quiet wedding of last evening was that which took place at 6 o'clock in St. John's Lutheran church of Orange when Miss Lorena Einspahr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Einspahr of Orange and Ray B. Roberts of this city were married. The Rev. A. C. Bode, pastor of the church officiated.

Only the closest of relatives were bidden to the ceremony. The bride chose a blue crepe frock fashioned on semi-formal lines, and enhanced by touches of sand shade. Her only ornament was a strand of exquisite crystals. Her sister, Miss Loretta Einspahr, was maid of honor, and was becomingly gowned in dark blue crepe. William Boyd of this city attended Mr. Roberts as best man.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Roberts left for an unannounced destination, going by motor. The bride was very attractive in a green traveling outfit with all harmonizing accessories. On their return they will make their home in this city, where Mr. Roberts is a rancher. He is the son of Mrs. Emma Roberts of French street. His bride attended Orange high school, and later Orange County Business college.

Pleasant Bridge Party Given As Farewell By Co-Hostesses

When Miss Gail Bidelman leaves next week for her mother's home in St. Paul, Minn., she will take with her memories of many delightful associations with her co-workers in the business office of The Register, and of a very charming party in her honor given last evening with Miss Cora Holt and Mrs. Jack Minihan as co-hostesses in the latter's home at 103 East Eleventh street.

The attractive apartment lent itself well to the decorations which featured the holiday motif. A large bowl of cotoneaster vied for interest with a tiny Christmas tree laden with sparkling tinsels and trinkets. Bridge was the game of the evening, and Miss Frances Vieira scored high and Miss Mildred Heltzman, low. Each received an attractive prize, while Miss Bidelman was also presented with two lovely gifts on behalf of the assembled guests.

The Christmas theme was continued during the supper hour when the small tables were spread with shiny linens and centered with small red candles. Ice-cream moulded in Santa Claus form in red and white, contrasted attractively with the exquisite green china service used. Nuts, candies, and other delicacies added their note of color to the pretty scene.

Those sharing the hospitality of the hostesses, Miss Holt and Mrs. Minihan, other than Miss Bidelman, the honoree, were the Misses Helen Lutz and Frances Vieira, Mrs. Amosel McBroon and Mrs. Rosa Azus of this city, and Miss Mildred and Miss Evelyn Heltzman, of Fullerton.

Bridge Club Met With Mrs. Alvin McMullen

Mrs. Alvin McMullen was hostess to members of her bridge club yesterday afternoon when she entertained in her home on West Seventh street. Luncheon was served at 1 o'clock amidst a setting of bright-hued chrysanthemums. A huge red candle centered the table, and was flanked with tiny Christmas trees.

A gift exchange preceded the afternoon of bridge. Mrs. M. O. Wells read an original poem which cleverly discussed each of the members present.

Those present, other than Mrs. McMullen, were Mrs. Wyckel, Mrs. Charles Hicks, Mrs. Herman Smith and Mrs. H. O. Garlock of this city, and Mrs. M. O. Wells and Mrs. Sadie Patton of Costa Mesa.

Bridge Club Met In Weeks Home

A delectable luncheon was enjoyed by bridge club members Wednesday afternoon when they were entertained by Mrs. Robert Weeks in her home at 1104 West Walnut street. That popular combination of red and green provided the decorative motif of the day.

In the bridge games of the afternoon Mrs. Thaddeus Kelly scored high and Mrs. Jay Brooks, low.

Those present, other than Mrs. Weeks were Mesdames Thaddeus Kelly, La Verne Gulley, Fred N. Anderson, Arnold McKerley, Harold Lindsey, Jay Brooks and Ralph Larimore.

Luncheon and Bridge Were Enjoyed By Guest Group

Mrs. Earl Patterson was hostess to a few close friends at an original luncheon Tuesday in the Ruth Jenken Sandwich shop on South Mal street. Following enjoyment of the tempting menu, the group reconvened in the Patterson home at 2640 West Fifth street, for an afternoon of bridge. Mrs. Joe McKee was successful in winning the prize for high score.

Those enjoying the happy affair with Mrs. Patterson, were Mrs. Harry F. Coleman, Mrs. Stanley Morgan, Mrs. Ray Haynes and Mrs. Joe McKee.

The MIXING BOWL by ANN MEREDITH

SERVE FISH AT LEAST ONCE A WEEK

Custom seems to have set Friday as the day on which, willy-nilly, we must cook and serve fish. I am not concerned with the religious significance back of the custom except to admit its wisdom as a health measure, and to urge that you serve fish at least one day each week.

Fish is one of our most valuable sources of protein, the tissue-building food. Fortunately for the customer, the commercial fish is one whose habitat is usually the sea, so, in addition to the food value, you get iodine and one of the most important growth vitamins known to science, vitamin D.

But getting back to the business of cooking the fish dinner: What housekeeper doesn't shy away from washing the utensils used to cook fish? And who enjoys handling the uncooked fish? Why not serve one of the kipped varieties?

They are so good, and so easy to prepare. You can find kipped salmon, halibut or the rich black cod, at attractive prices. The easiest way to prepare these kipped fish is to heat them in a hot oven and serve them with lemon-parsley butter, plain boiled potato and a cream gravy, combined with a chopped hard-cooked egg. Offset these solid, stolid foods by serving the fruit salad I told you about Tuesday.

Just for heating fish, if for no other reason, I want you to buy and try some of the parchment cooking paper. You know how very odoriferous finnan-haddie can be . . . use parchment paper to heat it or even to steam it and avoid washing fishy-odored kettles.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Russian Chocolate
2 cups strong hot coffee
2 cups top milk, heated
4 tablespoons powdered chocolate
Sugar to taste
Pinch of salt
1-2 teaspoon vanilla
1 egg white, beaten stiff
1 cup whipped cream, slightly sweetened

In the top of a double boiler mix the powdered chocolate to a smooth paste with a little cold milk. Have the 2 cups of milk at the boiling point, pour slowly into the chocolate and cook for 15 minutes. Draw off the fire, taste, add sugar to your taste, the pinch of salt and the beaten egg white. Now—

With the egg-beater whip the mixture until it is a frothy mass. Have the 2 cups of boiling coffee in the big chocolate urn, or your covered waffle pitcher, pour the frothed chocolate over the coffee, whip to mix, add the vanilla, and serve. The whipped cream goes into the bottom of each cup—a tablespoonful of it—and the chocolate is poured over it.

There are six cups of chocolate in this recipe—provided you can fool your guests with the fluffed top—and each cup has calories totaling very nearly 800.

Milk, chocolate, cream and sugar mean that the chocolate affords the consumer a meal-in-one.

Have you sent in your stamped, self-addressed envelope for a free copy of the BLUE MONDAY DINNERS? If not, you had better do so right now. These dinner suggestions utilize remnants of some of our favorite Sunday dinners, but use them in such a way that the family cease to dread blue Mondays.

Tomorrow's lesson will take up the making of a delicious Holiday Punch to serve with the meat course.

'SAPS WORK' TO OPEN TODAY AT FOX-BROADWAY

NEW VODVIL AT WEST COAST ON FOR 1ST TIME

Paramount has gathered a fascinating group of film luminaries for "Only Saps Work," the farcical comedy which comes to the Fox-Broadway theater today for a three day run.

Leon Errol, the featured comedian of the picture, has been the star comic of Ziegfeld's "Follies" and also cornered the laugh market for the famous New York impresario in "Sally" and "Louis the 14th." He brought his trick knee and fun-making genius to the talking screen for the first time in "Paramount on Parade."

Richard Arlen, the male romantic lead in "Only Saps Work" is one of the most popular of the younger film favorites. Among the pictures he has made for Paramount are "The Four Feathers," "The Virginian," "Thunderbolt," "The Light of Western Stars," "The Border Legion," and "The Sea God."

Mary Brian, who shares the love interest in the picture with Arlen, has appeared with him in "The Man I Love," "The Virginian," "Burning Up" and "The Light of Western Stars." She was featured recently in "The Social Lion," with Jack Oakie, and in "Only the Brave" with Gary Cooper.

The story has to do with a comical crook (Leon Errol) who robs a bank and goes to a Health Farm to escape suspicion, posing as a detective sent to the farm in search of a thief. At the same time Richard Arlen, a young college graduate, is working as a kitchen boy in order to prove to his dad that he is capable of self-support.

The mix-up which follows revolves around Errol's efforts to prevent his identity being known. Arlen's efforts to prevent Mary seeing him in the position of a mental, and Erwin's efforts to track down the wrong suspects.

It all ends right side up, amid gales of laughter.

'HEADIN' NORTH' TO START SHOWING

"Headin' North," starring Bob Steele, opens today at Walker's State Theatre.

Realism seems to be the watchword among producers of Western talking pictures these days. For the story of "Headin' North" is as unique as the talents of its star. A boy whose father had been duped into "borrowing" the American Express payroll, and whose evil genius had skipped with the money, leaving the old man to hold the bag, takes his father's blame on his own shoulders and goes to the penitentiary.

"Headin' North," of which Bob Steele is of course the star, features Barbara Luddy and a powerful cast.

'WAR NURSE' LIKED AT FOX WEST COAST

"War Nurse," which opened yesterday at the Fox West Coast theatre, was made by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer with the thought in mind of presenting the woman's side of the war in the same direct, accurate, realistic manner that made such a success for "The Big Parade," outstanding epic of the boys in the trenches.

Searching for a story to carry out this idea M-G-M picked the frank novel, "War Nurse," which caused so much discussion when it appeared serially in a national magazine. Adaptation of this tale was placed in the hands of Becky Gardiner, adaptor of "The Trial of Mary Dugan," with additional dia-

Santa Ana's new Friday night vaudeville, starting today at the Fox West Coast theatre is declared to be composed of some of the best talent on the west coast, according to Manager Norman Sprowl.

The acts will be shown here only the one time, tonight, and a complete change in vaudeville is scheduled for the theater on Saturday and Sunday. The acts for today's show are all big time vaudeville numbers, which although never shown before are worked over from other acts and will be re-booked after their "previews" here tonight.

There are a number of vaudeville acts always being changed, many which are trying out new routines and new features and these are the ones that will be brought here each Friday where the new routines will be shown for the first time.

"Santa Ana is one spot in Southern California where the people know their vaudeville and demand the best there is, and therefore the Friday night vaudeville here should prove the most popular we have ever had," said Sprowl, "because these acts are all high class and many we would be unable to obtain for regular engagements if it were not for the new routines that these acts will try out here each Friday night," he said.

In addition to the vaudeville the final showing of "War Nurse" also is seen. The picture opened here yesterday.

Brilliant Cast

The players of an American nursing unit, in France during 1915, aviators of the Lafayette soldiers. The principal protagonists, two aviators and two nurses, are played by Robert Montgomery of "The Divorcee" and "The Big House," Robert Ames of "Holiday," June Walker, the stage star of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," and Anita Page of "Our Blushing Brides."

Other comedy and dramatic scenes are in the hands of such well known players as Zasu Pitts, Maria Prevost, Helen Jerome Eddy, Hedda Hopper, Edward Nugent, Martha Sleeper and Michael V.

WEST COAST SPECIAL Vaudeville TONITE

This will not be the same Vaudeville nor the same picture that is shown on Saturday and Sunday but entirely new bill from start to finish.

The Vaudeville on Friday will be professional acts that are breaking in new routines and using new material. Realizing that Santa Ana audiences are very particular in their choice of programs, we have these acts present for your approval which if well received will be booked over the circuit.

In other words, these Vaudeville shows on Friday nights at 8:30 will be previews of professional talent, breaking in and trying out new material. This will be in addition to the regular showing of the picture of the evening.

SAN CLEMENTE STREET LIGHTS ON NEXT WEEK

SAN CLEMENTE, Dec. 12.—The ornamental lights on the new $153,049 paving job at San Clemente have been tested and the work will be accepted by the city council at its next meeting, December 17. This was the announcement made by Mayor Thomas F. Murphine after a conference with W. A. Ayer, city engineer.

Lights will be turned on Wednesday evening and the two and two-tenths miles of paving from the north entrance of the town to Valencia street will be inspected as well as the 174 ornamental lights which line the new widened state highway and light De Mar from El Camino Real to the ocean.

The cost of the lighting job, which was sub-contracted to John R. Davies company by the Griffith company, was $36,412.

The paving job, widening the highway to a distance of 56 feet, state and county bearing part of the cost, was completed on October 10. Work was started by the Griffith company on August 10. The light work was finished yesterday.

TALBERT, Dec. 12.—Two property sales have been closed here this week. The two and one-half acre tract and the store building and six other houses located at the intersection of the Talbert-Santa Ana boulevard and Bushard road at the main Talbert corner have become the property of Donald Harper, local garage man, and I. E. Litten, local blacksmith. The local men purchased the property of Mrs. Phista Parsons, of Santa Ana.

This property dates back to the starting of the town of Talbert in 1899, the original store space in the present old business building having been built at that time by Joe Parsons, Santa Ana merchant who opened a store here. Upon the death of Mr. Parsons, his nephew, Joe Parsons, took over the store and since the death of Mr. Parsons several years ago the property has been owned by his wife.

The other sale of the week was that of 40 acres of land located one mile south and one mile west of Talbert, the property of Mrs. Finley Medlin. Fred Pope, local extensive bean grower, is the new owner of the land.

Fullerton Civic Body Backs Board In Road Project

FULLERTON, Dec. 12.—Assurance that the Fullerton Chamber of Commerce will assist the city council in obtaining approval from property owners and proper right-of-way deeds for the widening of North Spadra road was given at the meeting of the directors of the chamber at noon yesterday in McFarland's cafe, following a request from the board of trustees for the co-operation of the chamber.

R. M. Seamans, chairman of the highway committee of the chamber, who will direct work of contacting property owners, was given papers prepared to take care of legal steps preliminary to the construction project.

14,000 MILES ON 5-GALLON GAS CAN, CHAMPION BOASTS

SAN CLEMENTE, Dec. 12.—Fourteen thousand miles on a five-gallon gasoline can. It can be done, Mayor Thomas F. Murphine has discovered the man who holds such a record, a hitch-hike champion.

The mayor, having business at the south end of the Spanish village, passed a man carrying a five-gallon gasoline can. He stopped his car believing the man a motorist carrying gasoline to a stalled car. The man thanked him, stepped into the mayor's auto and took the can with him.

"Say," said the mayor, "don't you think you had better leave the can on the running board? You are likely to spill gas on the floor of the car."

"This is not gas," replied the man. "It's my suitcase. I have cut the bottom of the can, fixed it with hinges and an inside catch and it now holds my wardrobe."

The hitch-hiker stated that he had traveled 14,000 miles on his five-gallon gasoline can. Motorists, believing him carry gas to a stalled car, always picked him up.

The Wesson Oil people make

Snowdrift

for the people who want the nicest things to eat

SNOWDRIFT'S creaminess gives all your baking a light, even texture... because Snowdrift comes to you already creamed. It is smooth, spoonable and ready to mix. The Wesson Oil people make it of oil as pure and delicious and good-to-eat as a fine salad oil.

Weather does not affect it. In cold weather it doesn't get hard and in warm weather it doesn't get soft. It's just as friendly and smooth in December as it is in June. Sealed pails bring it to you as sweet and fresh as the day it was made.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY NAL COCHRAN - PICTURES BY NICK
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

The travelers said they had crossed the desert and once had been lost. "We ran into a sand storm, and 'twas terrible," said one. "To ride out in the open air is wonderful, when weather's fair, but when the sand begins to blow it isn't any fun."

This frightened Clowdy, just a bit. Said he, "I do not want to sit up on our truck and have my face whipped by a storm of sand. Would it be better if we went back to Algiers?" Then, spoke one gent, "Oh, no, my lad! Where'er you're bound, I'm sure you'll safely land."

They gave the kindly men a drink. The Travel Man then said, "I think that we will start way once more. The trip will take us long." And then they bid the men good-bye. Soon Scouty, looking at the sky, exclaimed, "It's getting cloudy. Gee, I hope that naught goes wrong."

Their truck moved slowly on its way. The bunch then heard wee Coppy say, "Gee! Look ahead. It's windy and real dusty all around. I'll bet a sand storm's coming now, but we can fight it off somehow. I wonder if we'd better stop and hop down to the ground."

A puff of wind made them decide 'twould be real wise to halt their ride and wait until the blow was over. Down to the ground they hopped. Fine sand began to fill the air, which gave the Tinies quite a scare. The Travel man said, "Crouch beside the truck. I'm glad we stopped."

By now the sand was everywhere! It tossed and whistled through the air. The Tinymites were huddled close together, quite all right. Scared Clowdy thought, "I guess I'll hide up in the truck," but when he tried, a puff of wind took hold of him. He soon was out of sight.

(Clowdy discovers he is lost, in the next story.)

Missing Letter Links

RULES

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to P N in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE-TIE-PIE-PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

MEAN to TIME—We had a MEAN TIME with this hole before we finally shot our par five. See if you can shoot a birdie.

MR. W. B. TEDFORD

Southern California is popularly supposed to be a place of transient residence. Our people are said to have come from the Middle West within the past few years, and to keep always on the move.

In the face of such an idea it is interesting to note the life history of a man like W. B. Tedford, whose resignation as manager of the Farmers and Merchants Bank was announced yesterday, to take effect the last of this year. He has lived in Orange County for sixty-two years, and has been in the banking business in Santa Ana for twenty-six of those years.

Such a period of service has given Mr. Tedford a notable place in the affairs of his community, and in the lives of a multitude of people whom he has served and worked with during all these years. He is rich in the memory of the experiences of a life of service and good work.

Mr. Tedford's interests have not been limited to his business obligations. He has found time in the midst of his busy days to engage in various other lines of work for the general good, many of them being of so quiet and unobtrusive a sort that few people knew of his activities except those who worked with him. He has found in the Church and in the Y. M. C. A. two outlets for his energies into which he has poured a world of work and thought. In lodge association and business organizations he has had an active part, being at times, as he called it, almost a "professional treasurer" for the organizations with which he was connected.

For a quarter of a century he has been a leader in Y. M. C. A. work in this county. First as a member of the County Executive Committee, which he has served as treasurer for more than twenty years, and then later as a director of the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A., of which he is and has been for years the treasurer, he has found joy in the work for boys and young men. He has served his Church, the First Congregational as a trustee and a deacon for many years.

For sixteen years, or during the entire term of the pastorate of the Rev. Perry F. Schrock, Mr. Tedford has been chairman of the Board of Deacons of that Church, and his faithfulness in those, as in all other duties, has been a matter of remark to all who knew of it.

His retirement from active management of the Farmers and Merchants Bank does not mean his retirement from activity in Santa Ana. Other interests will engage his attention, and with his energies released from the steady grind of constant supervision and responsibility, he will be at liberty to give time and thought more freely to some of the things in which his life has been so constantly bound up.

Congratulations would seem to be in order, first, to Mr. Tedford, on having rounded out so splendid a record of service, and second, to the community in which he has lived, on the inspiration that is derived from lives such as this one, spent in good work and upright living.

Sixty-two years of residence in Orange County would seem to give very little support to the idea of impermanence on the part of our citizens. It rather gives color to the idea that this is a good place in which to live long and well.

It would be a fine thing for all of us if Mr. Tedford, whose interest in the history of Orange County is well known, could be prevailed upon to devote some time to recording his memories of the past and its personalities so that the events which have come under his observation might not be forgotten by those who come after.

Dorothy still thinks that Ping Pong is one of those generals mixed up in the Chinese civil war.

THE GROWTH OF GRAFT

There is something disheartening in the fact that over 75 Federal officials have recently been arrested in Detroit for taking graft from rum runners. The temptation for illicit gain is great, and only men of high principle can resist the temptation. Even then, how frequently it happens that men who have always been upright, and from whom everything noble is expected, have fallen before the first temptation. Which indicates that they were righteous only because they had never been tempted.

Human nature is weak. It may be recalled that Lord Macaulay in his essay on Lord Clive recounts the charges of graft made against him after he won his victory at Plassey over the rebellious Indian princes. Everything was in his control. The wealth of India was at his feet. There was no force in India that could rise to hinder him. Clive admitted the charges, but is reported to have said to the Commission making the investigation, "By God, Mr. Chairman, at this moment I stand amazed at my own moderation."

The temptations to men when money is involved are terrific; but if we are compelled to admit that all men are corruptible in the face of temptations such as these officials fell before in Detroit, what is to become of our democracy? Will it follow that no law can be enforced when self-interest is involved? What we certainly need in this country is a new sense of official integrity. No government can survive whose citizens cannot be depended on to see that laws are to be enforced and obeyed.

A DRAMATIC CRITIC ON HOOVER

Mr. W. F. McDermott, a dramatic critic of high standing, calls on President Hoover to follow his own counsels to the people of the nation to help pave the way to prosperity by attending the theater occasionally. All our presidents have been in the habit of attending the theater, he tells us. President Wilson was in the habit of attending Keith's vaudeville performance every week, even during the strenuous days of the war. Mr. Coolidge was often seen in the box of one of the theaters.

The theater business, like the business world in general, has experienced a great slump during the depression, says Mr. McDermott. If President Hoover would occasionally attend a performance, not only would he contribute something himself to the support of the theater, but the public would follow him. It is a well known fact that the announcement that the President will attend a certain performance is an assurance of a full house. There are always men and women in Washington who want to turn their eyes upon the President of the United States, and who would gladly purchase a $5 seat at which he is to be present just for the privilege of turning their opera glasses upon the box in which he and other nationally known notables are seated. Keith's was always crowded on Thursday evening when Mr. Wilson was in attendance.

Of course, Mr. Hoover has never thought about it. But at any rate, here is a suggestion. And besides assisting in promoting prosperity, the President might get a relief from the strenuous toils of his high and exacting office. A Washington correspondent of a New York paper has noted that the President looks weary and over-serious since taking up the duties of the presidential office. Perhaps a little levity might be good for him. Mr. Wilson evidently thought so. And we all recall the classic story of President Lincoln relieving the tenseness of his nerves during the most serious days of the Civil War by reading a selection from Artemus Ward at a cabinet meeting.

WHAT WOULD WE DO WITHOUT THE INCOME TAX?

Until the adoption of the Sixteenth Amendment to the Constitution in 1913, Congress had no power to levy direct taxes. The government was financed entirely by customs on imports and taxes on articles of merchandise sold within the country. Great incomes were entirely free from federal taxes.

What the income tax means to the financial support of the Federal government is evident from the report recently sent to Congress by Secretary Mellon. For the fiscal year of 1930 customs on imports yielded $587,000,903, internal revenues yielded $628,308,977, and taxes in incomes yielded $2,410,986,977. That means that more than half of the revenues of the government is drawn from those who are best able to pay the taxes. Whence that huge amount would come were it not for the powers granted by the Sixteenth Amendment to the Congress would be hard to figure out. Our tariff would have to be very much higher, and many more articles of merchandise would have to be taxed.

The framers of the Constitution never dreamed of a government which would require over $5,000,000,000 to meet its annual expenditures. It may be that other needs never dreamed of by them may have to be provided for by amending the Constitution. It is very doubtful if the war could have been financed as it was had it not been for the income tax. The man familiar with the history of the Civil War recalls the straits to which the government of that time was put. Our currency was debased, our soldiers were paid in depreciated money, prices soared to the sky, simply because our government had no power to levy on the incomes of the people.

Portugal Ashake Again

Fresno Morning Republic

Portugal is just discovering its 'steenth revolutionary plot.

Before we get excited about this, we should remember that Portugal in its 20 years as a republic is now governed by an administration that is the result of revolution against revolution several times.

And before we wax ironical about the instability of the Portuguese republic, we should recollect that the Portuguese monarchy, which preceded it, had suffered as frequently from revolutions, changes of party that were softened to the public view by the continuance of a nominal loyal family as ruler.

The Portuguese people are just as worthy as any other people on the face of the earth. And at heart just as capable and as stable. But they happened to be more dependent than many others on mere political habit. Their habits of monarchy were outworn, and they knew it. Their habits of republican government are new and untried, and the Portuguese know it. Their revolutions are an evidence of groping about for better things. At that, these revolutions are far less bloody than those that occur in other parts of the world.

As They Are Listed

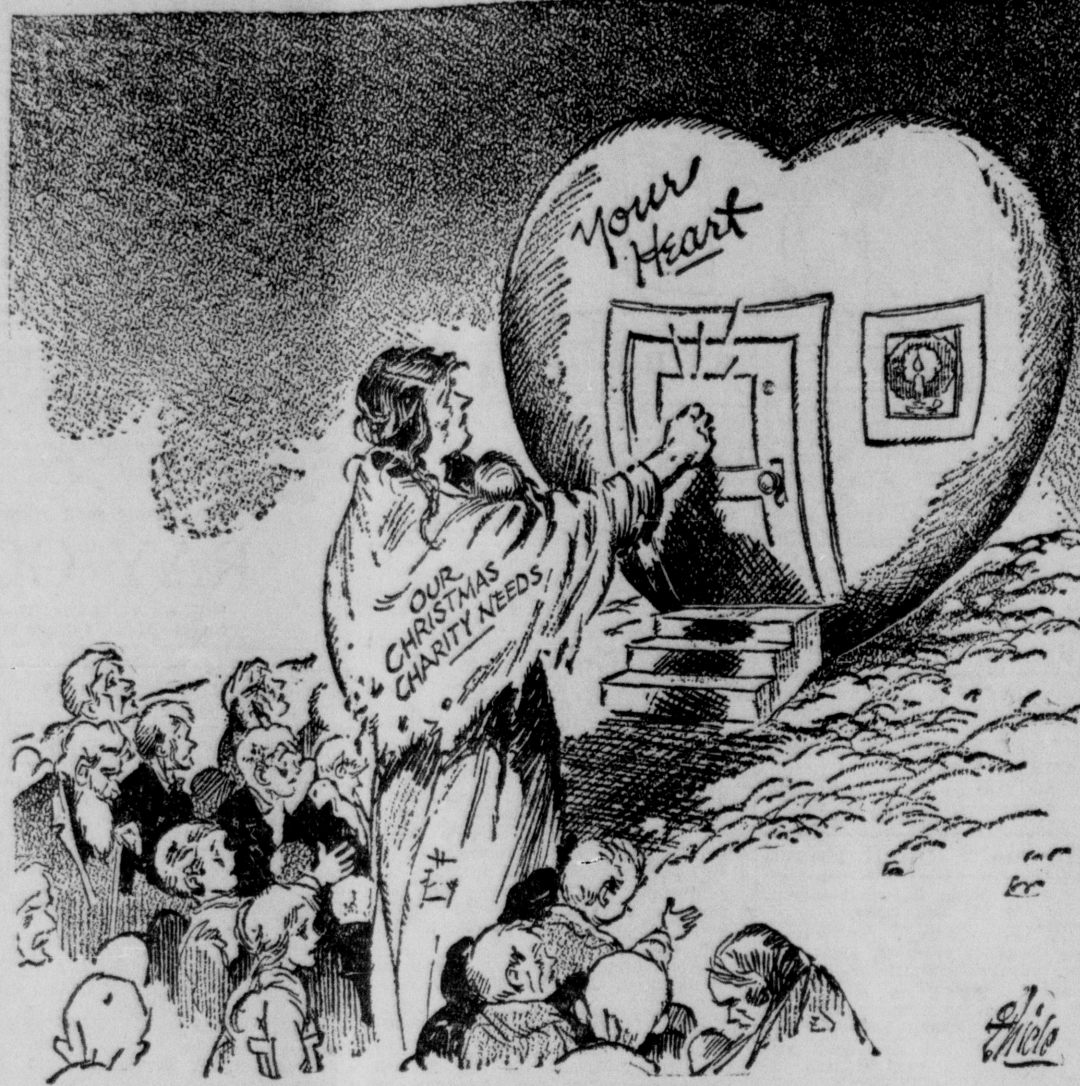

Oakland Tribune

Old jokes have it, the higher up you are in the social register the fancier is your name.

Yet in the 1931 social register, which has been analyzed backward and forward for omissions, strange inclusions, and what else it may show to those who think it important, the Smiths lead the lists and the Browns, Whites and Potters are among those other families which have the largest representation. There are only eleven Vanderbilts, six Belmonts, three Astors, and twenty-two Roosevelts.

A social register published on this Coast failed to include Dr. Millikan, discoverer of the cosmic ray, holder of the Nobel Prize, and friend of Dr. Einstein. But there was solemnly mentioned, to the embarrassment of some of his former customers, a man who won his wealth peddling rum.

Will There Be "Room at the Inn"?

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

FROM THE HEART

While still in my crass, inexperienced teens
The assertion I happened to read
That golf is a sure and infallible means
Of assisting a man to succeed.
"Learn to master this pastime," the writer declared,
"Put your mind and your soul in the game,
And later in life you'll be fully prepared
For the battle for money and fame.
And you'll carry abundant and vigorous health
To the fight you must wage for distinction and wealth."

I have dubbed 'round a golf course for seventeen years,
Keeping at it from morning till night;
But the glorious goal I was promised appears
To be still just as far out of sight.
I have dug up an acre of emerald sward,
But I can't keep my eye on the ball,
And as for attaining that promised reward—
Not as yet have I glimpsed it at all.
My hair has grown thinner, my form lean and lank,
And I haven't a cent stored away in the bank.

And so I would counsel the youth of the land—
And down deep from my heart do I say it—
That golf as a casual pastime is grand,
For the folks who are fitted to play it.
But to most of the people who swing futile clubs—
A word to the wise will suffice—
To the fellows like me, who were born to be dubs
It isn't a game, it's a vice.
And to cherish the rainbow illusions of hope
Is merely to feed on a species of dope.

CRIMINAL CARELESSNESS

About the only time the police ever catch an important crook is when he forgets himself and parks his car on the wrong side of the street.

UNNATURAL

Those Wall Street bears haven't enough sense to hibernate when winter comes.

NOT YET

Anyway, the speculators haven't asked Congress to hold a special session for their relief.

Harvard Helps

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

On the Boston side of the River Charles, the Harvard University Graduate School of Business Administration is studying the problem of relieving unemployment. Directly across the river, on the Cambridge side, Harvard University is actually relieving unemployment. To be sure, it has considerable difficulty in keeping students busy, but it has no difficulty in keeping bricklayers busy.

During the past twelve months, the University has taken up the slack in employment to the extent of more than ten million dollars which it has expended on construction jobs. During the next ten months, the University plans to spend eight million dollars more. These millions will be spent for a building for the Physics Department, a building for the new Geography School, Freshmen dormitories, Biological laboratories, Medical School power house, a Faculty Club, and the five remaining units of the Harvard House Plan.

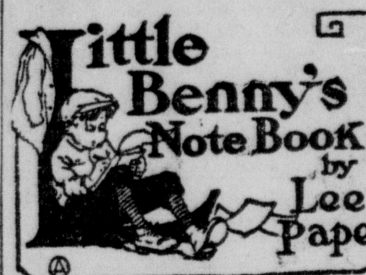

All such activities have a bearing on unemployment which is often overlooked. Large additions to the bread-lines are caused by overproduction, which—of course—is the same thing as underconsumption. Expenditures for university equipment, like expenditures for public works, do not cause further overproduction. They increase the flow of consumer income without increasing the flow of consumer goods.

In other words, every dollar paid to a bricklayer on a college campus helps to take surplus stocks from the markets without putting more stocks on the market.

Thus suffering families are made happy, languishing business is revived, and the whole country gains the immeasurable wealth which is stored in its educational foundations.

In your own neighborhood, there is a college just as deserving and just as needy as Harvard University. And no doubt, in this winter of unemployment, it is just as able to do good with all the money entrusted to it.

Saturday afternoon me and Puds Simkins and Glasses Magee was standing around the lam post talking about how we wished we had the money to go and see the Kut Up Comedy around at the Little Grand, me saying, I been to the movies so much lately its no use of me even asking.

Me either, thats a way with me, Puds sed, and Glasses sed, I been to the movies so much my mother says Ill turn into a movie, so thats how much use it is of me asking.

G, I wish we could think of some way, I sed.

And we all started to think to ourselves trying to get a idea Puds saying, Hay, I know, elp-asking we all go in our houses and ask our mothers for money for the movies and tell her she can take it off our Christmas presents and give us that much less for Christmas.

Sounding like a pritty good of a idea as long as nobody didnt have a better one, and we all ran in our houses, me going up to ma's room on account of hearing her sewing machine going, and I watched her sewing on it a while, saying, Whats you making, ma?

Never mind the preliminaries, out with it, ma sed.
Meaning what did I reely want,
and I sed, Well hay, ma, I got a grate idee how to save some money at Christmas.

It would be an ideal time to save money, I must say, ma sed.
Sounding encouraging, and I sed,
Well, its easy enough, all you haff to do is give me some money for the movies now when you wont miss it and take it off my presents at Christmas when youll be glad to have it. Thats all you haff to do, I sed.

And allevey haff to do is wawk out of heer the same way you came in, thats easy enough too,
the idee, ma sed.

Sounding discouraging, and I went out again to Glasses and Puds was just coming out of their houses both looking sadder than when they went in.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

GANGWAY FOR GENIUS!

We have a positive passion for organizing the things that should be left unorganized and leaving unorganized the things that should be organized.

Evans E. Plummer recently wrote this sensible statement:

"Did you ever notice that all of the big successes in this radio broadcasting business are those stars who have been allowed to go ahead with their own plans without a lot of outside interference?
"Amos 'n' Andy, the Three Doctors, Uncle Bob Wilson, Uncle Abe and David, Arabesque, Hank Simmons' Showboat, Reinald Werrenrath, Will Rogers, and any number of other famous and beloved air features fall in the non-supervised category.

"What's wrong with supervision by client and network or local station? Nothing in particular, I answer, except that the broadcasts would be far better off and exceedingly more popular if the dear clients (who pay the bill) and the red-taped networks or local stations (who help the client spend his money) would arrange for the start of the broadcasts and then graciously commit suicide.

"He's a smart sponsor who knows enough to let his stars build their own programs without his ignorant suggestions."

I commend this statement to boards of trustees and presidents and deans of universities.

I commend this statement to the statesmen of churches.

I commend this statement to all men everywhere in positions of authority over genius.

Gangway for genius!

This, I submit, is a significant if somewhat slangy slogan that might well be adopted by all institutions that deal with the mind and spirit of the race.

If we could bring a little more organizing genius to bear upon our general economic situation and far less organizing genius to bear upon the management of the men who are really equipped to give us intellectual, artistic and spiritual leadership, we should fare better.

But, of course, it is gangway for genius, not gangway for mediocrity, that we want.

But when we are lucky enough to catch a star in university, church, or state, let's stop ham-stringing him.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

PUT ON THAT COAT

Many a mother is worn to a shred with the worry of making her son put on his overcoat. Son hates that overcoat. It is so stiff that it gets in his way, so long that it flaps about his legs when he runs. So hot when he is exercising. He hates that coat.

But he will take cold without it?
Maybe he will but I doubt it. I have watched these young huskies who hate overcoats and I find that they rarely suffer from colds. The one that snuffles and sneezes is usually well bundled up with a woolly scarf about his neck, thick rubbers on his feet and a stout overcoat over a sweater, to ward off the cold blasts.

The other cold wears as little as he can do with. He may be red about the tips of the ears, a bit moist about the end of the nose, but he isn't coughing, and he doesn't sneeze. He hasn't time.
He is kicking a ball, racing after it, fighting for it, rolling over the lot after it, doing anything but standing still to sniff and shiver.

If you have a delicate child wrap him well and take no chances but if you have one of those stout, hard mules, hard playing youngsters who have never had a day's illness in their lives, let them wear what they like and pay no heed.

Don't weight his feet with rubbers unless there is a fall of snow or slush that comes over the shoots. Put a stout pair of shoes on his feet, warm stockings, good underwear, a wool jacket, mittens, cap, and turn him loose.
Rain won't hurt him, neither will snow. Fresh air, the more of it the better, will ward off colds.

One of the causes of colds is poor diet. Watch that and keep it well balanced as to sugar and fat this season. Another cause is bad ventilation. Keeping children in badly ventilated rooms is enough to set them all to sneezing and coughing. It lowers their vitality and leaves them a prey to colds.

Suggestion helps keep a child well. Keep telling him how husky he is, if he is, and say nothing to encourage a head cold. There is nothing easier for a boy than catching a head cold. He can take one right out of the air. And he can let it go by just as easily by keeping so busy and thinking himself so well that it never touches his consciousness.

But do not try to dress all the children alike. If there is a delicate one don't try to harden him by making him go without sweaters and exposing him to sharp weather. Deal with him as he needs without over doing the care. Telling a child he ought to be hardy doesn't make him so.
Ordering him to be well won't make him that way. Each of them has to have what his nature requires and none of them is blamed for having that kind of nature.
It was wished on them, indiscriminately.

Let the healthy youngster run light as to overcoats. If he needs one he will wear it. Guard the delicate one. Usually he will help you for he feels the need.

JOHN JAY'S BIRTH

On Dec. 12, 1745, John Jay, an eminent American jurist, was born in New York City, the son of a wealthy merchant.

Following his graduation from Columbia college in 1764, Jay studied law in New York City and soon attained eminence in his profession. He was a delegate to the First Continental Congress in 1774 and formed one of the committee of three which drew up the celebrated address to the people of Great Britain in which the "rights of the colonies" were stated.

After he had served as chief justice of New York and president of the Provincial Congress of New York, Jay was appointed United States minister to Spain. His real diplomatic fame, however, rests with his services at Paris, whence he had gone to join Franklin in negotiating the treaty of peace between Great Britain and the United States. Jay is considered to have had a prominent share on the American side in the signing of the Treaty of 1783.

When he returned to New York, Jay was appointed secretary for foreign affairs. Upon the organization of the federal government he was allowed by Washington his choice of all the public offices to be filled by the president's appointment. He chose to be chief justice of the supreme court, which position he filled with marked dignity and ability until 1795.

DIFFICULT

POSSIBLE EMPLOYER: But you're asking for a rather high wage seeing that you know nothing about the work.
APPLICANT: But, you see, not knowin' the work makes it so much harder for me.—Sydney Bulletin.

PLENTY OF MATERIAL

"Hello, Jack! What are you doing?"
"I've built a shed out of my own head."
"Out of your own head?"
"Yes, and there's plenty of wood left for a dog kennel."—Tit-Bits.
